

INDICTED IN DANIEL LIQUOR THEFT HERE

Three Men, Accused With Others, Are Named by District Attorney.

Names of three men who were indicted in the Federal investigation of the "milk" of 893 barrels of whisky at the Jack Daniel's distillery, 3560 Duncan avenue, which he said had not been made public previously, were announced today by District Attorney Curry. They are Thomas J. McLaughlin, Edward Stone and a man named Sullivan, but the District Attorney did not further identify them. They have not been arrested. Thirteen other persons were named in the indictment, which was returned here more than a year ago, and they have furnished bond. Chief among those indicted was George Remus, notorious Cincinnati bootlegger. Remus, as is known, has been before a Federal grand jury at Indianapolis this week in a renewed inquiry in the Jack Daniel case. It is expected that those indicted here will be released at Indianapolis, that others will be indicted there in the case, and that the case will be tried in Indianapolis rather than St. Louis. In a deposition by the late Frank Bond, a Tennessee attorney, telling details of the sale of whisky in which Remus was a member, Thomas J. McLaughlin was named as among those who sold to the syndicate.

Stewart had been ill for four months, and four weeks ago underwent an operation for enlarged glands of the neck. He came here to attend the Fairmount track race meeting.

Stewart was the son of the late Patterson Stewart, who made a fortune in the early days at Kansas City, where he owned a stable of trotters and pacers which performed notably in the late eighties and early nineties.

CONVICT SAYS HE TOOK PART IN DILLON MURDER

Richard Eoff, in Jefferson City Penitentiary, States He Drove Auto and Another Did Shooting.

COUNTY PROSECUTOR PLANS QUESTIONING

Woman, Named as Companion of Physician April 30, Denies Tale, as to Her, Is True.

Richard Eoff, a murderer serving a life term in the Jefferson City penitentiary, today told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he took part in the murder of Dr. William A. Dillon here on April 30 last and named a young man as his accomplice.

He gave a full statement of what he says were the circumstances of the murder from the time he declared it was committed in a take holdup on a lonely St. Louis County road to the abandonment of Dr. Dillon's body at Washington University athletic field, where it was found the next morning.

Besides the young man, Eoff named a woman, residing in the vicinity of Delmar boulevard and Academy avenue, as having been with Dr. Dillon when he was murdered. This woman, when questioned by a Post-Dispatch reporter at her apartment, vehemently asserted that Eoff's statement was a lie, insofar as it concerned her, "Tody," once had been pointed out to her by Hotel Chase, but she did not know either of him and never had been any where with him.

Prosecutor Doubts Story.

The fact that Eoff was holding himself forth as an accomplice in the Dillon murder became known when prosecuting attorney Mueller of St. Louis County announced the murder had offered by letter to appear before the grand jury.

Knowing Eoff as a clever and unscrupulous criminal, the prosecutor is inclined to disbelieve his story and has suggested that it is advanced so that Eoff may be brought to St. Louis County and placed in a fair situation to make an escape.

Eoff, garbed in stripes for a recent attempt at escape, prefaced his story at the penitentiary today by saying that he had known the young man in the case for eight months prior to Dr. Dillon's murder. He would not reveal the circumstances of their first acquaintance.

Presumed Holdup, Eoff Says.

On the day of the murder, he said, the young man called upon him at his rooming house at 1100 Mississippi avenue, after lunch. He declared he had had a row with Dr. Dillon and said he wanted to get him out of the way.

Eoff would give no details of the conference that followed, but said finally was agreed that he would assist to rob Dr. Dillon and that the young man, making a show of trying to thwart the holdup, would shoot the physician, as if by accident.

The young man, he related, then went to the woman, said by Eoff to have been a friend of Dr. Dillon. The young man asked her to arrange a meeting with the physician and that same night was set as the time.

Wife of Drive Into County.

Eoff said he drove the young man to the woman's apartment in a stolen Gardner touring car, acting the part of a service car driver. There, he continued, they picked up Dr. Dillon and the woman and drove east to Kingshighway, south of Clayton road and west to Hanley road where they turned south. Under the Terminal bridge, on Hanley road, two blocks from Bruno avenue and near the Wallace pencil factory, was the scene of the murder as given by Eoff. He said he stopped the car, pretending the engine had died, and at the point of a revolver ordered the occupants out.

The young man got out of the car behind Dr. Dillon, Eoff said, with a revolver in his hand as if he were resetting the holdup. Eoff said he stepped aside to get out of the line of fire and the young man fired three or four shots. Dr. Dillon, directly in front of the young man, fell a few steps and fell dead. Eoff said that during the fake holdup he fired several shots into the ground to make it look good and took the young man's revolver from him in a simulated struggle.

"Body in Auto Two Hours."

After that, he related, he and the young man placed Dr. Dillon's body in the back seat and drove to St. Louis. After driving around in the park for two hours they left the woman at her apartment, he said, and drove to the Washington University athletic field.

There, they attempted to get in at a vehicle gate, he said, but were

Zoo Orangoutang and Sponsor

By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

BOBBY was officially pronounced to be the name of this new Sumatran orangoutang at the Forest Park Zoo when the boy for whom he was named played with him at the Primate House yesterday. The boy is Bobby Wunsch, 4 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Wunsch, 6312 Southwest avenue, and nephew of George E. W. Luchmann, one of the donors of the new simian. Luchmann's brothers, Edward H. and Alfred D., joined him in the gift. They were present when the two Bobbys shook hands yesterday, and the boy Bobby fed raisins and milk to the monkey Bobby.

unsuccessful and finally found a smaller cage. He was not definite as to the exact location, but declared that they carried the body about 10 feet from the curb to the gate, then across the field, leaving it near a building either on or very near a cinder running track.

This was about 10:30 p. m., he said. They then drove to Kingshighway boulevard and Manchester avenue, where the young man got out. Eoff said he drove the Gardner to East St. Louis and on the way threw the young man's revolver into the Mississippi River from the Free Bridge. In East St. Louis, he said, he returned the stolen automobile to a man from whom he had borrowed it.

Plan to Question Man.

After hearing Eoff's story, as told to the Post-Dispatch, prosecuting attorney Mueller said he was still skeptical of its truth, but would at once send Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Noble to the penitentiary to question Eoff. Upon Noble's report will depend whether Eoff will be taken before the grand jury, now in session at Clayton.

Shortly after Mueller had learned the details of the story the woman mentioned by Eoff called on the telephone to assert that she had no knowledge of the murder. At her own suggestion, she is to confer with the prosecutor this afternoon in his office.

Eoff's life term was assessed after he had pleaded guilty of the murder of Alfred Craske, service car driver, on a deserted county farm, April 28, the day before Dr. Dillon was killed. He was arrested four days later and because of the similarity of the wounds on the bodies of Dr. Dillon and Craske he was questioned about the Dillon murder, but steadfastly denied any knowledge of it.

He explained his statement today by saying that he knew the county grand jury was to investigate the Dr. Dillon murder and that he "didn't want to get all the rap for it."

Insurance companies have withheld payment of the $25,000 which Dr. Dillon carried on his life. With his son, Tody, as beneficiary. No suit has been filed by Tody Dillon for force payment. Private detectives, employed by the insurance companies, have not dropped their inquiry into the murder. It will be remembered that "Tody" Dillon was held for several days and questioned in the investigation, at all times refusing to tell his whereabouts on the night before his father's body was found.

NEW CHARTER AT KANSAS CITY FAILS TO DOWN BOSSES

First Election Tuesday Under Its Provisions to Be on Party Lines, Which It Was Hoped to Abolish.

CAMPAIGN HAS BEEN STRICTLY POLITICAL

Opposing Candidates a Republican and a Democrat, but Not So Designated on Ballot.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 29.—An attempt by Kansas City to eliminate partisan politics from municipal affairs has failed of accomplishment in the first campaign in which its new nonpartisan city charter has been put to the test. The usual party organizations have nominated the candidates on strictly political lines, and a bitter partisan campaign is under way.

It may be that eventually the hope of the civic reformers, the independents in politics and those generally who believe that there is no reason why politics should be considered in running a city than in running a meat shop or a dry goods store, will be realized, but not at this first election next Tuesday.

Kansas City has been a boss-ridden city for many years. Party bosses have thrived and grown fat on political spoils. Occasionally there has been an uprising of the citizens and the bosses have been overthrown, but always it has been a temporary overthrow. The old bosses either have speedily returned to power or new bosses have sprung up from the ranks of the pure and undefiled who but a short time before ragged against the iniquity of boss-control.

Accepted New Charter Smilingly.

The bosses were forced to accept the new charter, but boss-like, they accepted it smilingly, professed always to have favored it, and began studying the means to convert it to the uses of their party organizations.

Seemingly it worried them not at all that the Charter did away with political party designations on the ballots at both primaries and elections. Each party organization had its ticket in the primary Oct. 13. They were not designated Republican and Democratic, but the organization conducted an extensive canvassing campaign which could have left no doubt in the minds of very few voters as to the candidates. Of course there were other candidates, independent of the party slates, but they received few votes.

There are 16 wards in Kansas City, and in the past the municipal legislative body has consisted of two houses, one elected by wards and the other at large. The new Charter provides for the election of a Mayor and a Council of eight members, of which the Mayor is to be a member and over which he will preside.

City Manager to Be Named.

The Council will appoint a city manager, who will name directors of nine city departments, law, finance, public works, fire, health, welfare, water, parks and personnel. The Mayor will have virtually no duties other than to preside at the meetings of the Council.

It will be the aim of the party bosses is to control the election of the Mayor and four members of the Council, which will enable them to dictate the policies of the city and retain control of the thousands of jobs.

The Republican nominee for Mayor is Albert L. Beach, who has held the office for two years, and who is a cousin of former Gov. Hadley, Chancellor of Washington University. Beach is classed as a silk stocking.

Jaudon Democratic Nominee.

Searching for their strongest candidate, the Democrats picked Ben Jaudon, who has been City Treasurer for five terms, and who has ever been a very popular candidate. No matter what happened to other Democratic nominees in season and out, even during Republican landslides, Jaudon has won.

In recent years Democratic candidates generally have not fared well due to the fact that Tom Pendergast, leader of the "Gang" faction, and Joseph E. Shannon, leader of the "Rabbit" faction, have been unable to get together in support of the successful party candidate. Although both have slitted in the primary and the Pendergast slate won, the appearances are that the factions are together this time. Shannon himself does not seem to be taking much part in the campaign activities, but all of his lieutenants are fighting vigorously for Jaudon.

Likewise, the Republicans who have been torn into factions since the anti-boss movement in the party in 1922, are working in harmony. Another factor is that for the first time in the history of the city, the

COAL DEALER FOUND SLUGGED IN OFFICE

Christian Buettner Says Stranger Entered and Hit Him With Tongue.

Christian Buettner, 55 years old, was found unconscious today at 9:30 a. m. in his coal office at 1432 Clinton street. His skull was fractured, his scalp lacerated and near by on the floor was a pair of ice tongs.

Buettner told the police that he was sitting in his office when a man entered and hit him over the head. His glimpse of the man was so fleeting, he said, that he could not say whether he was white or negro.

A customer found him. There was $11.47 in his pockets.

AIR FUNDS USED FOR OTHER PURPOSES, MADDEN DECLARES

Chairman of House Appropriations Committee Against Assaults U. S. Aviation Service.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 28.—The United States air service is in its present depleted condition because the funds that were appropriated for its development have been used for other purposes. That is the situation in a nutshell," Representative Martin B. Madden of Illinois, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, yesterday told the Federation of Republican Women of Maryland, in convention here.

"We haven't any air service worthy of the name in America," Madden said. "I think we are going to the place where we will have to take the power over air service out of the hands of military men and place it in the hands of those who know how and when to buy."

"They say we haven't given them enough money. They must have an air service even if they have to cut the chairman of the Appropriations Committee and put their nets right into Uncle Sam's coffers. I sit on the lid, but they want to break in over my body."

"We don't need more money. We need better planning. We haven't an aggregate of 1500 planes and we haven't got one plane to show for what we spent during the war. We want an American defense that is justified, but we want the army and navy to understand that they are servants of the people and not their masters."

Officers now in control of the air service, the Congressman said, are "incapable of producing the results that Japan and several European nations produce, even though the United States has many times the amount of money spent by those countries."

"Our officers have insisted that no man be allowed to pilot a machine unless he is a commissioned officer. That is like trying to run an army with all Generals. You can't run an army with nothing but Generals."

Hughes Players to Give Comedy.

A three-act comedy will be given by the Hughes Players at Strassberger Conservatory Hall at 8 p. m. today, followed by a dance.

ADMIRAL IN PLANE CRASH

British Commander in Mediterranean Shaken and Bruised.

MALTA, Oct. 28.—Vice Admiral Sir Roger Keyes, commander-in-chief of the British Mediterranean fleet, was slightly injured yesterday when an airplane in which he was riding crashed into the sea.

Admiral Keyes was inspecting the flying arm of his command from the aircraft carrier Eagle under seagoing conditions. He was taken up for a flight himself and his machine had to make a forced landing when the engine failed. The Admiral was shaken and bruised, but expects to return to duty in two or three days.

The pilot and another officer in the plane were cut and bruised.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

Often Caused by Bladder Weakness

Dr. J. C. Eckhart, 2017 St. Clair St., St. Louis, Mo., says: "After taking Eckhart's Bladder Tablets one week, the bladder started left me and my night's sleep was not disturbed. You should get the tablets as I had tried many things. I was tired to write my experience and the Eckhart's Bladder Tablets cured me. I am now healthy, neutralized, strong, and free from irritation, that causes one to have sleepless nights. The tablets cost 25 cents at all drug stores. R. L. Lohmeyer, St. Louis, Mo., is the manufacturer."

SULPHUR HEALS SKIN ERUPTIONS

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clean and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A jar of Rawles' Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

ONE-TIME PEDDLER SEES STATUE OF HIMSELF UNVEILED

Paterson (N. J.) Philanthropist Honored at Ceremony Attended by 15,000 Townspeople.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Nathan Barnett, once a peddler, went to the unveiling of his own statue in Paterson, N. J., yesterday. Barnett thereby became one of the few who have had public monuments to their memory unveiled before their death.

The ceremony was conducted in the city hall plaza before a crowd of 15,000. The statue is a full life-size bronze by Gastano Federici, also of Paterson. It stands close to that of Garret A. Hobart who was Vice President in the first term of William McKinley.

Barnett, who is 88 years old, was Mayor of Paterson for two terms, 1884-1888 and 1889-1890, and Alderman for four terms. He has given to Paterson the Barnett Memorial Hospital, the Barnett Memorial Nurses Home, the Hebrew Free School, and the Daughters of Miriam Home for Orphans and Aged. To his native city, Posen, Germany, he has given an orphan asylum and a synagogue. During the great panic of the last century he refused to take rent from the tenants of his houses in Paterson. During the California gold rush, as a boy, he earned his living on the Coast as a peddler.

GERMAN LABOR UNION OFFICER IN ST. LOUIS

Eduard Backert, Head of Brewery Trades, Studying Industrial Conditions.

Edward Backert of Berlin, general president of the German brewery trades unions, and a representative of the unions at the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor, was a visitor in St.
Louis, yesterday, on a tour of American cities in which he is making a study of industrial conditions, trades unionism, and—incidentally—prohibition in America.

"I have not yet had time to form
my conclusions, particularly as to the operation of prohibition in America," the visitor told a Post-Dispatch reporter at the Anheuser-Busch Brewery, where he had just concluded a round of the institution. He was the guest of a committee of union officials headed by Joseph Hahn, president of the local executive board of brewery, soft drink and cereal workers.

Backert called on August A.
Busch, president, and conferred with other brewery officials. In the course of which he lect a questionnaire relating to prohibition, working conditions and kindred questions, the nature of which was not disclosed. He commented on the size of the institution, about twice the size of the largest breweries in Germany.

Speaking through an interpreter,
the visitor said that political conditions in Germany, while in the experimental stage, were entirely satisfactory to the workers. Neither President Hindenburg nor the monarchical party, he said, could overturn the Government, if they so desired, because of the numerical strength and solidarity of the Socialist and Labor parties.

Backert's tour has included Cincinnati, Chicago, Milwaukee, Kansas City and St. Louis, and will conclude with a few stops in Eastern cities before his return to Germany. Last night he addressed a mass meeting of brewery workers at Gambrinus Hall, 3631 Salema street.

CAPTAIN OF STEAMER BLAMES S-51 COMMANDER FOR CRASH

He Tells Inquiry Board Submarine
Didn't Show Red Light
Soon Enough.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—Vigorous denial that he had disobeyed any of the laws of the war was made by Capt. John H. Diehl of Everett,
Mass., master of the steamer City of Rome, testifying yesterday before the naval board of inquiry investigating the collision of Sent.
25, in which the submarine S-51
was sunk.

Diehl told of seeing a white light for some time before the collision and suddenly a red one,
which caused him to reverse his engines, blow his whistle and swing
to port, just before the crash.

Thirty-three men went down with the submarine when she sank off Block Island.

The submarine commander was at fault, Diehl contended, and asserted "if he had shown a red light all the time he should therefore not have been any collision,
and I would not have been here
to testify."

Members of the board of inquiry developed in indirect examination of Diehl that he spent 15 or 17 minutes on the port side of the pilot house, where he did not see the white light on his starboard
and returned to the starboard
only a few minutes before the collision.

Diehl maintained throughout that in rescue work he had done everything possible to save life and that he would act similarly if so placed again.

Man in Feminine Garb Hangs Self.
By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Suicide, the police agreed, caused the death of Edwin T. Gardner, 30-year-old student, found last night by his father hanging from a rafter in the attic of his home. He was in feminine garb and wore a wig. Although his wrists and ankles were tied with twine, the father, Robert S. Gardner, and investigators believe that the youth, who was said to be an ambitious worker in the chemical department of a packing plant, had contracted the desire to give the death the appearance of murder.

COMPLIMENTARY
BIDS ON CITY WORK,
RESEARCHERS SAY

Contractors May Be Submitting Deliberately High Figures to Deceive Service Board.

HOW TOTAL THEN MORE ATTRACTIVE

Easy Money" Awards Result—Official Estimates of Cost Are Said to Have Been Too High.

The Bureau of Municipal Research, upon completion of an analysis of the variation of bids on improvements, today declared: "It is evident that competitive bidding in good faith is necessary for public work, and the estimates of costs should be thoroughly prepared so as to form
a basis for comparison with bids received."

Great variations in the high bids received, from 1 to 23 per cent above low bids, the bureau's calculation, "Mind Your Business," concludes, "may indicate that a large number of 'complimentary'
bids are being received."

Complimentary bids, the statement explains, may be made for overriding purposes, with the intention of securing the Board of Service or other contractors
by fair costs, to make the lower bid of a friendly competitor more effective, or in the hope that all bids will be high and an "easy money" contract may be awarded.

Other conclusions reached by the bureau are that the Board of Public Service estimates, used as the basis of awarding contracts, have been too high, and that contracts awarded without competitive bidding have averaged 7 1/2 per cent above the city's estimates, while contracts awarded on competitive bids have averaged 8 per cent less than the city's estimates.

As the basis of the conclusions,
the statement was as follows:
"The expenditures by the city for public improvements during the past few years will be the greatest in its history. Before commencing any public work, it is the usual practice for the Board of Public Service to make an estimate of the cost, based on plans and specifications, and then call for bids."

There were 412 formal lettings for public improvement work let
by the Board of Public Service between Jan. 1, 1924, and Oct. 1, 1925. The low bids received for these contracts aggregated $13,390,- 000. We believe that the new Board of Public Service (which has been in office since May, 1925) as well as the public, should be interested in the comparison between the estimates and the contract prices.

Of 23 Per Cent Over Estimates.
Of 25 of these lettings, contracts amounting to $591,000 were awarded without competitive bidding,
the prices ranging from 8 per cent
to 23 per cent over the city's estimates of cost. The total amount of the contracts was 7 1/2 per cent above the city's estimates.

An analysis of 238 lettings covering contracts amounting to $12,- 000,000 which were made under competitive bidding shows that:
"An average of 4.2 bids were received at each letting."

The contractor's low bids varied from 12 per cent under to 63 per cent over the city's estimates, but the total of city estimates presented in advance of the lettings was 8.9 per cent or $1,116,700 over the low bids.

"In 71 per cent of these lettings,
bids were made on bids lower
than the city's estimates."

"In 54 per cent of these lettings,
the contract price was within 10 per cent of the city's estimate."

"The high bids ranged from 1 per cent to 123 per cent above the low bids."

HERE AT LAST IS REAL RELIEF FROM EXCESS FAT!

Silph Reducing Chewing Gum
Latest scientific discovery takes New York by storm—Everyone is chewing it and POUNDS of FAT ARE ROLLING OFF!

No longer need you suffer from excess fat. No longer need you be humiliated by sartorial looks or remarks. No longer need you starve yourself to disfigure or live hell out with exercise. With Silph Reducing Chewing Gum, the latest and most wonderful discovery ever made, every man, woman and child every day, quickly and easily reduce.

Silph Reducing Gum is the result of years of scientific study and experimentation—it is different from anything ever advised to take off FAT. It is simple, safe, cheap and easy. It is almost like telling you to eat cod liver oil. It is just as pleasant and so harmless.

Silph Reducing Gum is not a drug nor a laxative—it contains pure extract of sea plants known for years to possess wonderful reducing properties but until now it was impossible to obtain sufficient quantities of these plant extracts to supply a public demand. Today a group of scientists have found a way to obtain it and to incorporate it in a delicious, refreshing chewing gum. When mixed with the gastric juices, through the flow of saliva it eliminates fat forming elements in the system—at the same time it is great for stomach or intestinal trouble. The quick and amazing results already obtained with Silph have simply been overwhelming. Silph sells for 50 cents a box, enough for one week, at all good drug stores. Remember that to "CHEW SILPH IS TO BE SILPH-LIKE," that's a New York's latest slogan.

RIVALS AT POLLS

ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

PREMIER KING.

TARIFF ISSUE BEFORE VOTERS IN CANADA

Premier King, Liberal and Arthur Meighen, Seek Majority of 245 House Seats.

By the Associated Press. OTTAWA, Canada, Oct. 23.—It is estimated that 3,500,000 voters will go to the polls today to choose the members of Canada's Fifteenth Parliament.

The campaign closed last night with a whirlwind effort in all parts of the Dominion. There are 245 Representatives to be chosen for the House of Commons. The candidates nominated a week ago totaled 181, but some of these have dropped from the race.

Premier William Lyons Mackenzie King, Liberal, and Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, are fighting for control of the next House. The Progressives or, former-low tariff party, which formed the largest opposition group of the old Parliament, with its 66 members, is expected to come third in today's race.

Premier King is upholding a tariff policy which is considered a half-way measure between the free trader and the high protectionists. He also stands for reduction in taxation and immigration. Meighen is in favor of a protective tariff. Particular stress has been laid by him in his speeches on allegations that the policies of the King Government have closed Canadian factories, driving workmen to the United States and driven away immigrants from Canada's doors. He also has urged that no preferential tariff should be given which is to the disadvantage of Canadian workers.

Girl, 5, Approaches Too Close to Flames in Reaching for Pin on Mantel.
Reaching for a pin on a mantel in her home this morning, Robbie Hance, 5 years old, of 2647A Geyer avenue, stood too close to the open fire in the grate, and her dress was caught in the flames.
Her mother wrapped an elder-down quilt about the child before the dress was consumed by the fire, and took her to City Hospital. Robbie's condition is serious. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hance.

PLAN TO COMBINE NORMAL AND SURTAX RATES IN ONE SCALE

Representative Bachrach of New Jersey Considering Move to End Need of Hiring "Experts."
By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Simplification of the income tax section of the revenue law by combination of the normal and surtax rates into one graduated scale of normal rates is under consideration by Representative Bachrach of New Jersey, a Republican member of the House Ways and Means Committee, which will start work next week on the drafting of a new revenue measure.

He is seeking to alleviate the conditions against which many protests have been lodged. Taxpayers protesting they are forced to appeal to expert accountants in many instances to make out their returns.

We Have Planned to Lead in Radio Selling in St. Louis

For Some Time This Store Has Been a Member of an Association Consisting of Some of the Foremost and Greatest Department Stores

The Radio Departments of Fifteen Great Department Stores located in as many cities have combined to make this purchase. In the City of St. Louis, this store alone has been selected to participate in the greatest value-giving sale of high-grade Radio Sets, made by a nationally known maker, that this city has ever seen. This manufacturer is located in the city of New York—and because of the fact that many of the stores participating in this sale are located in Eastern cities, they were enabled to start this sale a few days ago. The entire purchase consisted of 7500 Sets, giving each store but 500 for the sale. By telegraph and telephone we have been apprised of the fact that some of these stores sold their complete allotment in one or two days, and they have made efforts to obtain more from some of the stores which have not yet started the sale.

But We Will Protect Our Customers

Many of these Sets are already here, and the rest will be here in a day or two. We want five hundred people of this city to get these Sets. Five hundred people represent only a very small fraction of the population, and only a small fraction of the thousands upon thousands who will read this full-page announcement. When you see these Radio Sets, and the fine high-grade equipment that goes with them at this extremely low price, you will realize that

We Have Determined to Give St. Louis the Greatest Radio Value Ever Offered

This remarkable five-tube Set is nationally known. Because of the extremely low price at which we are offering it, complete, we have been requested by the manufacturer not to announce his name. Everyone, however, will immediately recognize the Set, of which thousands have been sold at a price far in excess of this remarkable offering.

Just How We Are Able to Do It

Manufacturers in the Radio business or any other business do not often receive orders for merchandise to be sold at retail for close to a half-million dollars. Much more, seldom do they receive such orders at one time, from one source, for immediate shipment! Little wonder, then, that he was willing to shade his profit for quick turnover and an opportunity to place his merchandise into more thousands of homes which have been awaiting just such an opportunity.

Profits Forgotten in This Effort for a Record Sale

This is why you are getting this complete outfit for $59.98. The Set is a five-tube tuned Radio Frequency receiver, embodying two stages of tuned Radio Frequency.

Detector and two stages of Audio Frequency. It is built in a walnut cabinet with low-loss sockets, low-loss condensers, low-loss coils, formica panel and beautiful, highly polished dials.

Anyone Can Learn to Operate This Set in Five Minutes

If you buy one, you will boost our Radio Department—that is why we make the price so low—we want you to know our Radio Department, and boost it.

ALTON CITY HALL 70
YEARS A TRESPASSER

Court Says Ground It Stood on
Was a Grant for River Traffic.

For 70 years the city hall of Alton stood firmly on a site that should have been used only as a landing place for Mississippi River traffic.

So ruled the Illinois Supreme Court yesterday in a case brought by Alton citizens who objected to a new city hall on the old site. The historic old building was destroyed by fire in April, 1924. After the fire the city fathers moved to an office building, where they still are, and planned to erect a new hall on the site. The East End Improvement Association wanted to use the land for a parking lot, and produced the original grant by which Rufus Easton, founder of Alton, gave the land to the city in 1815.

The Madison County Circuit Court ruled that the grant was violated and was sustained by the higher court, which ruled, however, that the city could not have been forced to tear down the old building or remove the foundation, which now stands on the site.

Plans for a bond issue and a new site are being discussed. It is probable the old site will be used either for parking space or be improved as a public park.

U. S. TREATS NEGROES BEST.

AFRICAN CHIEFTAIN FINDS
King Nana Amah III, Sailing for Gold Coast, Predicts Amalgamation of Races.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29. — King Nana Amah III, all-high chieftain of the Fanti tribe on the African Gold Coast, who came here a few weeks ago to visit negro centers of America, called for home yesterday, convinced, he declared, that the negroes in America are treated better than in any other civilized country in the world, with the possible exception of France.

Then the King, who speaks perfect English and is a widower, admitted that his wife, who died three years ago, was a white woman. When the two races in America, the white and black, have attained a higher standard than exists today, they will amalgamate, he said. It would be a mistake for such a thing to occur now. It may be several centuries, but it will come, he added.

He is going back to his kingdom, where he rules 40,000 tribesmen, many of whom are members of the Church of England.

POLICIES PAYABLE TO EMPLOYER

Ten members of the St. Louis sales force of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Boston have established a precedent in insurance practice by taking out policies payable at death to their chief, Lloyd B. Van de Linda, general agent.

The policies, for $10,000 each, were taken on the theory that the general agent would suffer a definite loss by the premature death of one of his salesmen because of them.

MAN TO BE DEPORTED FROM U. S. FOR THE SECOND TIME Officer of Communist Party, Having Wife and Four Children, Returned Unlawfully.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—A warrant ordering deportation from the United States has been issued by the Secretary of Labor against John C. Schadel of Fort Wayne, Ind., who was originally deported to Hamburg, Germany, in 1919, on the ground that he was an officer of the communist party. Schadel returned to the United States unlawfully, the Labor Department holds. Schadel has a wife, whom he married after coming to the United States in 1906, and four children. The family circumstance was used in a protest to the department in which a large number of individuals joined, among them Dr. David Starr Jordan of California. Assistant Secretary of Labor White, in a response to Dr. Jordan's protest, said the law made deportation mandatory because the man "not only associated himself with an organization which had for its purpose the violent overthrow of the Government of the United States, but he was an active member thereof and was ready to witness a revolution with its disastrous effects."

"It is hardly necessary for me to say that the Secretary's sympathies go out to the wife and American-born children, for they are the real sufferers," White added. "Where the circumstances permit and the law gives him a discretion he always takes a sympathetic attitude but where the law vests in him no such discretion he can do no more than to sympathize and say that it is indeed a pity that the husband and father brought upon the family this sorrow."

CEMENT HEAD PLEA MADE BY JAILER IN DRUGGAN CASE
Capt. Westbrook Has Impression Skull Is a Solid Block. Petition Explains.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—While the ivory dome has been prominent in sports, the "cement head" is the latest in characters of small will-power. Capt. Wesley Westbrook, former jail warden who is under sentence of four months in jail for allowing Terry Druggan and Frank Lake, illegal brewers, to pass much of their sentences outside of his castle, was before Federal Judge Wilkerson yesterday on a plea of mitigation.

Senator Barbour his attorney, said Westbrook was suffering from a "cement head," a condition so designated by physicians. The medical men who have attended Capt. Westbrook in recent months will describe "cement head," said Barbour, as a condition that renders the afflicted person unable to form "correct and sane judgments." In that state Capt. Westbrook "disapproved the privileges accorded to beer barons, but lacked the power to assert himself."

The "cement head" figures in the petition pleading with the court for further consideration for Capt. Westbrook.

Explaining the former warden's symptoms, the petition says: "For a long time and previous to the incarceration of Druggan and Lake this defendant has had what may be termed a 'cement head,' causing him to have an impression that his head, so far as being able to think and discriminate and discern, is like one solid block, and he is incapable of having correct and sane judgments and keeping his mind on matters relating to himself in a sane and normal manner."

GAIN IN OPERATING REVENUES FOR THE MISSOURI PACIFIC

Total operating revenues of the Missouri Pacific Railroad in September were $11,577,707, an increase of $276,888 over last year, according to a monthly statement issued today. Net operating income was $1,888,875, an increase of $264,673, and gross income $2,466,527, an increase of $279,140. Operating revenues for the first nine months of 1923 were $96,123,780, as compared with $88,925,667 last year; net operating income, $12,439,355, and gross income $17,717,891.

The Gulf Coast Lines and the International-Great Northern, subsidiaries of the Missouri Pacific, also reported increases. Exposition Director Resigns. By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—Col. David C. Collier of San Diego, Cal., today resigned as director-general of the Sesqui-centennial Exposition and his resignation was accepted by Mayor Kendrick. Collier resigned because the building program of the exposition, which is to be held next year in commemoration of the one hundred and fifty

th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, was curtailed from $12,000,000 to $2,000,000. He will remain with the exposition organization in an advisory capacity until December.

FLAWS IN RECORD OF TITLE OF GLORIA SWANSON'S HUSBAND

Overnight, 1925, by the Free and Public Publishing Co., New York World and Free Press.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—Gloria Swanson and her husband, Monsieur Lee Bailey de la Falaise, "Marquis de la Coudray," have sailed for New York on the liner Paris with the question of her title will not cleared up to everybody's satisfaction. It is understood Falaise took with him the parchment which he has shown interviewers and on which he chiefly bases his claim to the Marquisate.

Certain apparent inaccuracies in this document are perplexing. Miss Swanson's husband, on the evidence of this parchment, says the title Marquis de la Coudray was conferred upon his seventh great-grandfather by queen Maria Casimir of Poland in 1707. But Queen Maria Casimir was not alive then; she died in 1687. The reigning sovereign of Poland in 1707 was Stanislas I, otherwise known as Lechinski.

Again, according to Falaise, his ancestor when he received the title was Ambassador at Rome. French Foreign Office archives show there was no Ambassador to Rome in 1707, but only a Charge d'Affaires; and that diplomat was Cardinal de la Tremoille.

Perhaps the parchment made a mistake and the name of the Queen should be that of a French woman, Marie d'Aquien, who, as wife of Jean Sobieski, had been Queen of Poland. But she retired from Poland after the death of Sobieski in 1696. However, the Falaise parchment which has been seen by the correspondent, bears a perfectly clear signature, "Maria Casimir," and she was dead.

MAYOR CAN'T 'BUFFALO' HIM, NOLTE DECLARES

Comptroller Says He Will Not Pay for Fire Pumps Until Aldermen Act.

Comptroller Nolte, before the Public Safety Committee of the Board of Aldermen today, announced he would not authorize payment for fire apparatus recently ordered so long as the board's resolution asking him not to pay was in effect.

The committee is investigating the purchase of five pumps authorized by the Board of Standardization and which Mayor Miller instructed Supply Commissioner Dietz to buy from the American-La France Fire Engine Co.

"How did the Mayor 'buffalo' the Board of Standardization to approve American-La France equipment?" Alderman Eilers asked asked Nolte.

"I don't know," replied the Comptroller, "but he can't 'buffalo' me."

He went on to state that he thought the Ahrens-Fox equipment the best both from a standpoint of maintenance and efficiency. He promised he would not pay for the five pumps now being made unless the Aldermen approved or he was compelled to by legal action.

The committee questioned Supply Commissioner Dietz on the fact that the original specifications were such that only the Ahrens-Fox company could fill them.

"I didn't read them," he replied. "I approved them on the word of Mr. Brod (Director of Public Safety)."

"You should have read them," said Alderman Wilmer. "You're getting $6000 a year for just that."

There was a shower of questions in which Dietz insisted he "used his own judgment." Finally the hearing was continued until next week in order to question more witnesses.

MAVER DRY AGENT PRETENDED TO BE DRUNK TO GET LIQUOR

"If That Is So He Ought to Be Dismissed," Remarks U. S. Judge Davis.

Morris Hammer, on whose farm in St. Louis County there was a still, was sentenced to six months in Warren County Jail and fined $1000 by Federal Judge Faris today.

He pleaded that he rented his barn to two Italians for $50 a month, but did not know what it was used for. "You are trying to impose on the intelligence of the Court," remarked the Judge.

Rabby Ragg, a barber of St. Clair, Mo., was sentenced to four months in jail and fined $500 on plea of guilty. His attorney said a prohibition agent pretended to be intoxicated in order to persuade Ragg to sell a pint of whisky from his private stock. Judge Faris advised him to complain to Prohibition Administrator Bremer. "If that is true, the agent ought to be dismissed," he said.

Three other men were fined on pleas of guilty in liquor cases. George Reuter, caretaker of the Baker Hunting and Fishing Club on the Missouri River was fined $150 for possession; Herman Cherry, saloonkeeper at 5711 Thekla avenue, $425 for possession; and Frank Viller, roadhouse keeper, $440 for possession.

COURTHOUSE NO PLACE TO STEAL HOOCH, JUDGE SAYS

St. Charles County Grand Jury Told to Investigate Disappearance of Liquor.

Circuit Judge Woolfolk told the St. Charles County grand jury, at St. Charles yesterday, in commenting on the disappearance of a five-gallon can of moonshine whisky held as evidence, that the courthouse was no place to steal "hooch."

"Since my charge to you Monday," the Judge said, "a most regrettable thing happened in that someone stole five gallons of hooch from the Prosecuting Attorney's office. No matter what people think of law and its enforcement generally, this courthouse at least should be an abiding place for justice, but these criminals came to the temple of justice and embezzled liquor and destroyed evidence. I don't want you to spare any effort; officers are responsible for the disappearance of this evidence, get them."

The liquor disappeared yesterday. A St. Charles policeman had seized it in the automobile of Frank Hoffmann, Oct. 10. Hoffmann is under a State dry law charge as a result.

SOVIET CHARGES PLOT TO RUIN ITS RAILWAYS AND WAR PLANT

Espionage System Being Conducted for One of Great Powers, the Police Say.

MOSCOW, Oct. 29.—Discovery of plans for the destruction of railways, bridges, airdromes and military depots in Soviet Russia is reported by the state political police, formerly known as the Cheka. The plot, according to the police, was to be engineered by a counter revolutionary espionage organization on behalf of the general staff of a bordering state. The police allege this organization has been collecting military and political information for one of the great Powers. Many persons have been arrested in connection with the plot, several of them former officers and citizens of the Soviet republic. A former officer named Narsky confessed, the authorities say, that he planned last month, when the soldiers of the Red army were returning from camp, to destroy railway tracks and bridges with dynamite. The investigation will be completed within a few days, when the case will be referred to the Supreme Court for trial.

TAX APPEAL AFFECTS HEREDITARY FORTUNES

A. M. Frumberg Presents Case Involving Stock Transfer Before Death.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 20-23 Wayt Building.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—A tax case of wide importance, the decision in which will affect the settlement of the Morris estate in Chicago, the Oliver estate in Pittsburgh and other large hereditary fortunes, was laid yesterday before the United States Board of Tax Appeals by A. M. Frumberg, a St. Louis lawyer, general counsel for the Starck Piano Co. of Chicago.

The point at issue comes before the board for the first time. A tax assessment amounting with interest to $167,000 is involved in the pending case, which represents an effort to upset a decision of the Internal Revenue Commissioner in dealing with the estate of Philip A. Starck, founder of the $10,000,000 Starck Piano Co. Philip A. Starck died at Los Angeles in March, 1925. Three years and three months prior to his death Starck transferred to his son, Philip T. Starck, now the executor of his estate, and to his two daughters, 1500 shares of the capital stock of his company, of a book value of $2000 a share, retaining for himself 500 shares. At the time of the transfer the elder Starck was a widower, about 58 years old. When transfers of property are made within two years of death, the law presumes they are made in contemplation of death to escape the payment of the Federal estate tax, and places upon the estate the burden of proving the contrary. Notwithstanding a considerably longer period of time elapsed between the transfer of the Starck stock and the death of Starck, the Government held that the stock was made over to his prospective heirs in the contemplation of death and should be included for purposes of taxation in the gross estate.

Frumberg contended in his statement that it was incumbent on the government in the Starck case, to prove by evidence that the transfer was not what it purported to be. This, he declared, the government signally failed to do at a recent hearing in Chicago. The testimony taken there, he told the Board of Appeals, showed that while the elder Starck was believed by physicians in 1918 to have heart disease, this opinion was never communicated to him in his life time, that he remained active in business after the transfer and had planned a trip for June, 1922, to inspect the company's factories in England. He never expressed any apprehension of death. Frumberg continued and at the time of the stock transfer was not under medical treatment. The transfers, he said, were made for the sole purpose of satisfying the son who felt that he was entitled to a larger return from the business to which he had given his life and of making the remaining children independent during the lifetime of the father. Frumberg said that he had been unable to find a single case where a transfer was held to have been made in contemplation of death unless death actually ensued within two years. The gifts to the children of Philip A. Starck he maintained, "were made in good faith and from the purest motives, and there is no circumstance which could logically support a contention that they were in fraud of the rights of the government." The board took the appeal under advisement.

HUNTER IS WOUNDED BY RIFLE DISCHARGED BY JOLT OF AUTO

Bullet From Gun Resting on Fender Pierces Windshield, Striking Driver in Hand.

A unique accident in which he was accidentally shot was described by Edward Lindhorst of 2231 Sullivan avenue, when he appeared at city hospital yesterday with a bullet wound in the left hand. He was driving home from a hunting trip in Illinois yesterday with a friend when his machine bounced over a rut.

A 22-caliber rifle resting on a front fender was discharged by the shock, the bullet piercing the windshield and striking him.

Doctors Advise New Powder

It's here! Poudre Marsha—the perfect, hygienic, healing, antiseptic face powder which physicians have demanded.

Medicated with certain oils and creams known to medical science for their soothing healing qualities. Shields the skin from sun and wind. Poudre Marsha has a fragrance which is both refreshing and alluring.

FORCE ALONE CAN DEFEAT FASCISM, SAYS MUSSOLINI

Italian Premier Declares That Party Has Broken All Dikes and Overcome All Obstacles.

By the Associated Press.
MILAN, Oct. 29.—Benito Mussolini, the Italian Premier, announced to the world that Fascism intends to control the destiny of Italy until overthrown by force. Speaking in the Scala Opera House, which was filled to capacity by Fascists who had been celebrating the third anniversary of the historic march into Rome, Mussolini last night said that the power which had been seized by the bloodless revolution three years ago would remain in his hands or the hands of his followers.

It was the Mussolini of three years ago, in Fascism's early triumph, with the fire of conviction lighting up his face, still pallid from previous illness, who confronted the enthusiastic audience with the first definite proclamation of Fascism's complete rejection of parliamentarism.

Not only did the Premier assert Fascism's intention to hold by force its conquest, but in an earlier speech in the afternoon, he declared war against its foreign enemies. All Obstacles Overcome. This statement was made when he was standing in an automobile amidst the fascists filling Cathedral Square. He declared that Fascism would "crush international plutocracy and demagogism warring against Italy's interests, as it crushed its internal enemies."

"Fascism," he said, "has now broken down all the dikes and overcome all obstacles and is marching toward its lofty goal."

To his Scala audience, Mussolini said with deliberate emphasis: "This regime cannot be overthrown except by force. Our opponents believe themselves able to overthrow us with little groupings of lobbyists, with little rivers of more or less dirty ink. But they are fooling themselves. Ministers pass, but a regime born of revolution realizes all its conquests."

The Premier prefaced his speech with the admission that Fascism had imposed a rigid discipline upon the nation, maintaining that only this enabled Fascism to carry out its work. Italy lived under war-time discipline and war competition among the peoples in the arena of world civilization continued.

Frontiers are Sacred. Alluding to "the currents abroad which are not yet reached by the accomplished fact of our frontiers," Mussolini declared: "I must say once for all time that our sacred frontiers are those reached with war, and I must add that if tomorrow these frontiers are in any way placed at stake I would ask the King to draw his sword."

The Premier concluded: "The last century was the century of our independence; this century must be that of our power in every field, materially, spiritually achieved, by disciplined will. Every one of you must consider yourself a soldier, a molecule, feeling and pulsating with the entire organism."

I believe, firmly in the destiny of the power of our young nation. We will succeed because this is our will. The Government is the general headquarters of the nation. It is severe because it does not consider that its enemies have a right to citizenship."

THREE-DAY MUSIC FESTIVAL
Dedication of Auditorium in Liberty of Congresses Begun.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Signaling the Government's patronage of art, a three-day music festival opened yesterday for the dedication of the auditorium erected with private funds under authority of Congress in one of the courts of the Library of Congress.
The auditorium, which seats 111
persons, was erected with funds
furnished by Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge of Pittsfield, Mass., and will be maintained by donations from the music-loving public.
The United States Treasury is custodian of the maintenance fund,
under the congressional authorization, and musicians and artists appearing in the auditorium will be paid with checks drawn on the ditorium will be by invitation only,

it is planned also to throw the doors open to the general public for some of the programs in the interest of stimulating public interest in the art.

AMUNDSEN AT 5

KEROSENE CIRCUIT

FUNDS FOR P

Turns to Full Dress and

$200,000 Before "H

Supports Pea

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON.

To see a man, at the age of 52,

on a lecture tour of the country,

is not especially stirring. True,

it is arduous work, playing these evening stands, and traveling all day between, but many have endured it. To be told that the man

starting out to raise $200,000

excites some surprise. It is a lot of money. Still, it has been done. But what shall we say when a man, at the age of 52, starts on a lecture tour to raise $200,000

which to equip an expedition

across the North Pole, which expedition he intends to conduct in person? That, it doubtless will be a record, takes a stout heart. That is exactly what Capt. Roald Amundsen is setting out to do.

There are not many really great adventurers left in the world.

Hann and wireless have banished

the vast unknown spaces of earth

that once tempted bold spirits

only the vast icy wastes at the edge of the planet remain to test

the best mettle of man. Amundsen has proven equal to this test. He is a great adventurer—and he is a wonderfully charming character.

Every Key to Spirit.

In his quick smile, courteous

manner, and quaintly broken English, one sees only the polished

Norwegian. In the hard-muscled

frame and perpetually reddened

skin, one observes merely a figure accustomed to a strenuous life in the open. It is in the eyes, cold and blue and patient as the ice of the Arctic sea, that one recognizes

the indomitable and enduring spirit of the man who went to the North Pole, the man who tried to go to the North Pole and failed.

And who now, with his dress suit

and manuscript, sets out at the age of 52 to raise the money that will enable him to try it again.

After meeting and talking with

Amundsen one understands the immense purpose with which he keeps on with what he has started. One also understands the marvelous trust and devotion with which various explorers—men who know the terrible perils of the polar seas—unhesitatingly place

their lives in his hands and unquestioningly go where he takes them. Here, obviously, is a character so selfless and unselfish, a resolution so completely unshakable,

and a mind so resourceful and far-

seeing, that the man compels loyalty

to the very strength of his virtue

and the virtues of his strength.

As to Claims of Peary.

During his presence in St. Louis yesterday, he was asked for his opinion upon attacks which recently have been made upon the claim of Admiral Peary's claim to discovery of the North Pole. In a magazine article recently published in the Independent, William

H. Shea, a Washington writer, argued that Peary had failed to reach the Pole. He based his conclusions upon several phases of Peary's report, with emphasis upon the long marches which Peary

claimed to have made, particularly on the return trip. He also pointed out what he said were contradictions in Peary's report.

In a subsequent article in the Independent, Shea reproduced a letter from the venerable Major-

General A. W. Greely, who led the ill-fated polar expedition of 1894.

Greely stated that he had been forced to the reluctant conclusion that Peary failed. He also mentioned alleged discrepancies in Peary's account, as well as "contradictory reports in former expeditions." And likewise speaks of "the unparalleled distances" stated by Peary.

Peary claimed to have made the journey from Cape Columbia (the last nearest the North Pole) to the Pole and back in 55 days, of which

27 days was consumed in the upward journey and 28 on the return.

The distance from Cape Columbia to the Pole is about 450 miles.

ROOSEVELT EXHIBITION
TO OPEN IN 2 MONTHS

Additional Curios Sought by Historical Society for Display at Jefferson Memorial.

Death found Roosevelt asleep.
He had been awake, there would have been a fight.

From this whimsical evaluation
by the late Thomas R. Marshall, through other evaluations, in the original by men of like caliber,
through letters written or signed by the handwriting of Theodore Roosevelt, and many cartoons,
photographs and other relics treasured for their association with this, a fair idea may be gained at the Roosevelt Exhibition at Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park of the dominant personality of the man himself.

Last Tuesday was Roosevelt's birthday, and has been designated
"R day" with reference to the allegory Roosevelt takes in such preparation for the Spanish-American War as Assistant Secretary of the Navy and did not abandon in his life. The exhibition is to be open about two months. Although it already occupies most of the display space in the east wing of the memorial, the Missouri Historical Society is seeking other St.
Louisans with Roosevelt curios to add to those.

At 11 o'clock, the exhibit was dedicated by John H. Gumbach and Paul V. Bunn.
Regard for Public Men.
To Chief Justice Taft of the Supreme Court, as shown in a manuscript in the display, Roosevelt seemed "a genius in mental quality like Napoleon." The striking thing about him to Charles Evans Hughes was his "constant escape from the limitations of environment," of which only one example was that, born and reared among "exclusive circles of the East," he nevertheless exemplified the free spirit of the Western plains. "Another," he said, "I have kept the promise I made to myself when I was 21—to live my life to the hilt until I was 60."

A fragment from a poem to Roosevelt by his friend, Edgar Lee Masters, handwritten and signed,
is

I know some men achieve a single thing.
Like courage, character, in this incarnation:
You have achieved some twenty things, I think.
That going some for a man whose gifts
Are commonplace and nothing else.

Roosevelt's preference for going straight to the source of information on any question before him, rather than waiting for it to come to him, is indicated in a letter to a Chicago newspaper man
writing him to the White House
in Colorado, a Colorado situation which he had written a series of articles. Perhaps it is significant that Roosevelt said he was interested in the situation not so much politically as socially and economically.

His Recognition of Service.
A generous readiness to recognize outstanding worth, the trait whereby a few great men are enabled to surround and support themselves with first-rate brains, instead of only talking about it, is disclosed in a letter to another man, which begins, "I want to congratulate you as an American upon the admirable place of work you have done in reference to the two wretched Japanese that our Government surrendered to torture and death."

It was in 1894, when Roosevelt was a Civil Service Commissioner, that he wrote this letter.
In this letter, incidentally,
"disastrous" is spelled "disaster-ous." But so far as the reporter could find out, this threw no new light on the characteristics of the writer.

In another letter to the same man he said: "I quite agree with you as to our whole people being laughably and comically ignorant of our duty in foreign affairs, and the shame to which this ignorance exposes us. Its worst manifestation is among the educated classes who pride themselves on their intelligence. I am going to have a smash at our educated people on this point."

On March 14, 1896, when he was president of the New York Police Board, he wrote to a man who had thereafter resigned to become Assistant Secretary of the Navy in preparing for war, he wrote to the newspaper man, who then was in London: "Oh, Lord, how I wish
we could have a row with Spain,
and how I despise some of our people here."

Warning Against Foes Within.
Another manuscript page, under date of eight years ago last Tuesday, bearing Roosevelt's signature, reads: "In the long run we have less to fear from foes from without than from foes within; for the former will be formidable only as the latter break through our strength.
The man who opposes preparedness
in our military and industrial life,
the business or political corruption,
the factionary, and the sinister creature who plays upon and inflames the passions of envy and hatred; the hard materialist, the self-indulgent lover of ease and pleasure, and the silly sentimentalist—all these are the permanent foes of our household. From their ranks are drawn our immediate enemies, the faint-hearted who fear Germany, the puzzle-headed who refuse to understand her, and the men of foul soul who do her evil bidding."

And then the estimate of Irvin S.
Belmont, humorist and popular magazine writer, but, first of all, "good reporter." "In my opinion Theodore Roosevelt made more mistakes as a politician and fewer mistakes as an American patriot than any man since Andrew Jackson."

Thus we see that Roosevelt was not only a man of letters, but a man of action. He was a man who was not afraid to speak his mind,
and who was not afraid to stand up for his principles. He was a man who was not afraid to take the lead, and who was not afraid to be the first. He was a man who was not afraid to be a hero, and who was not afraid to be a martyr.

THE downfall of civilization is indicated by the news that a standardizing committee of tack manufacturers has almost decided to eliminate the carpet tack. They say that modern housekeepers do not use tacks, which implies, of course, that carpets are going out of fashion. So now when it seems desirable to have a dishonest public administrator up on the carpet for rebuke and humiliation, there will be no carpet. And this is the same taken it is to be feared that the shortsighted committee did away with the tacks, too, so that no one can get down to them any more.

END WAR BY MORAL FORCE,
MRS. P. N. NORTH ADVOCATES

Retiring President, St. Louisan, Addresses Council of Women in Convention at Detroit.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 25.—The surest way to end war is by conference, discussion and arbitration,
Mrs. Philip North Moore of St.
Louis, retiring president of the National Council of Women, declared last night, in an address which opened the biennial meeting of the council here.

"The true solution lies in the establishment of a moral force resulting from conference of men and women who can think, and who can obtain exact information as to any dispute between nations from the discussions in an open international conference," she said.

"No nation can or will dare resort to war in the face of the disapproval of the rest of the world. If some means can be found to mobilize that moral force on the eve of hostilities. The great and lasting movements of the world have been moral, not those backed by physical force. Mrs. Moore has been president since 1916.

So slenderly smart—
so comfortable—and a real underwear bargain, too

THESE cosy, perfectly-modeled union suits were designed by a woman for women. They fit so beautifully, wear so long, are priced so fairly that more than a million women will buy them
this year.

Almost any union suit looks attractive in the store. Soft and white and neatly finished, it looks out of its dainty box and seems to say: "Buy me."
And perhaps there's a claim of "unprecedented underwear savings" to tempt you further.

But the things that make union suits really smart
—really good value—are hidden. Is the fabric what it claims to be? Are the sizes correct or skimped?
Did the designer know women's figures, or were the suits cut hit-or-miss? Will the suit give at least three years' service?

Carter's Union Suits have done all this for three generations. That's why a million women now say "Carter's" to the clerk behind the counter. The tors and church officers is expected. A meeting of the St.

Louis Women's Presbyterian Society will be held at the Winne-bag Presbyterian Church tomorrow.
The Rev. Dr. Lewis B. Hills, of Philadelphia, director of recruiting for the Board of Christian Education, predicted a shortage in the ministry in two addresses yesterday, at the Second Presbyterian Church, Taylor avenue and Westminster place, and at the Washington and Compton Avenue church.

The speaker pointed out that there is a 10 per cent loss gain in the ministry than in the average increase of church membership, and declared that the shortage, while not greatly felt now, would become acute in the future. Work of his department in interesting students in the ministry, looking after 25-600 Presbyterian students in colleges, directing missionary education and publication of church literature, also was discussed.

The Rev. Dr. W. R. King of New York, secretary of the Board of National Missions, and the Rev.
H. J. Strickler, a missionary to India, addressed a rally following a Congregational dinner last night
at the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church. At Southampton the Rev. Dr. Moses Breeze of Chicago spoke.

Six Meetings Tonight.
Other meetings were held at six churches last night and speakers will address congregations of six other churches tonight.

Dr. William C. Covert of Philadelphia, secretary of the Board of Christian Education, who spoke
last night at the First Presbyterian Church, Washington boulevard and Sarah street, will lead a rally at Grace Church, Ridge and Clara avenues, together with the Rev. Dr.
Henry W. Lampe, a Korean missionary.

At the Lafayette Park Church
the Rev. James G. Bailey of New York addressed the congregation
last night, describing the work of the Presbyterian General Council.
Dr. William F. Weir of Chicago, director of men's work of the Board of Christian Education, spoke at the West Presbyterian Church, Maple and Maryville avenues, last night. Dr. Weir and Dr.
Bailey will conduct a meeting at the Cote Brilliante Church, Marcus and Labadie avenues, tonight.

Dr. Hills to Speak.
The Tyler Place Presbyterian
Church last night heard the Rev.
Dr. John H. Gross of Philadelphia,
of the Board of Ministerial Relief.
Dr. Gross and Dr. Hills will speak at the North Church, St. Louis and Warne avenues, tonight.

Other meetings planned for tonight include the Oak Hill Presbyterian Church, with the Rev.
Dr. John A. Rogers of the Board of National Missions, and Dr.
Locke as speakers, and the Sidney Street Church, where a dinner at 8:30 o'clock will be followed by addresses by Dr. King and Dr.
Strickler. A number of smaller congregations will participate.
Several board members will remain over Sunday to fill pulpits engagements.

"MIRACLE" OPENS 5 WEEKS' ENGAGEMENT IN BOSTON
Thousands Turned Away After Advance Seat Sale of $100,000—Ovation Tended Morris Gest.
BOSTON, Oct. 29.—"The Miracle" opened an engagement of five weeks last night at the Boston

Opera House, with thousands turned away and with an advance seat sale of $100,000, which is a record for any theater in this city. Lady Diana Manners as the Madonna and the Hon. Iris Tree as the Nun scored personal successes. There was a company of 600 persons. The spacious auditorium of the Opera House was transformed into a huge medieval cathedral, after the design of Norman Bell-Geddes. Among the boxholders were Gov. Alvin T. Fuller, Mayor James M. Curley and Otto H. Kahn, who headed a party from New York. An ovation was tendered to the producer, Morris Gest, who was formerly a Boston newsboy. Following its run here "The Miracle" will go to St. Louis, where it will begin an engagement of four weeks on Christmas Eve night.

DETROIT STRUGGLES TO GIVE AUTOS ROOM

"Master Road Plan," With 120 Foot Super-Highway, to Cost $100,000,000.

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 29.—Detroit wasn't so much until the automobile came chugging into the picture. But just as to much prosperity frequently proves an expensive thing, so do many officials here suggest that too many automobiles may spoil the municipal broth.

Almost everyone in Detroit, it seems, drives. Everyone with as little as $5 for a first payment is a potential purchaser. Detroit makes more automobiles than any other city; 200,000 of its population are employed in automobile factories. They make motor cars, and they ride in them.

So Detroit's thoroughfares are choked with machines—flivers by the ten thousands, trucks, passenger cars of every description, jit-nies and motor busses. The automobile industry has "made" Detroit. It also has created serious problems. Detroit today is hard pressed to keep pace with its motorized citizenry.

"Master Street Plan."
Subways, elevated, wider streets, stringent parking regulations—all have been suggested as panaceas. In the meantime the situation becomes more acute. Where to put a car is more of a problem to many than raising the revenue to buy it. Garage shortages in many sections, coupled with the native thrift or parsimony of owners, have worked to increase all-night parking at curbs. Big and shiny machines stand with their lowlier brethren. Thereby is added another perplexing traffic problem.

There has been evolved what is known as the "master plan," entailing an expenditure within the next 15 years of $100,000,000 for new thoroughfares and the widening of many existing arteries. 120-Foot Super-Highway.
For two years past street widening has been in progress, but it has not kept up with traffic increase. A super-highway to bisect the city, providing a direct East Side-West Side thoroughfare, has been approved by the voters. Yet today, before the approved plan has begun to take shape, it has been found that the proposed 80-foot street will be inadequate, and the plans are being revised for a 120-foot paved way.

The traffic problem is by no means confined to downtown Detroit. It extends even beyond the city limits. Several of the street widening projects now under consideration are tight miles or more from the business district. Some of these streets are to be widened to 264 feet. One super-highway, connecting Detroit and Pontiac—cities 25 miles apart—provides room for four machines moving in each direction at the same time. Yet even this roadway already has experienced serious traffic tieups.

TAX CHECK TO DETERMINE BEGGS' LEGAL RESIDENCE

District Attorney at Milwaukee Takes Step to Claim Inheritance Tax for Wisconsin.

A check on the income tax returns of John I. Beggs, public utility magnate, who died Oct. 17, to determine in what state was his legal residence, has been ordered by District Attorney Wengert at Milwaukee. Beggs in his will declared Florida, which has no inheritance tax, was his legal abode, but Missouri and Wisconsin, which do tax inheritances, are disputing his claim.

Records show Beggs filed a non-taxable Federal income tax return here for 1924, and for 1925 filed a return showing more than $25,000 income, on which his tax was $1064.61, less a rebate of $266.17 for earned income.

Twentieth Death From Wreck.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 29.—The death of Frank Anderson, 19 years old, a clerk of Hollywood, Tenn., brought the total number of deaths resulting from the wreck of a St. Louis-San Francisco train near Victoria, Miss., Tuesday, to 29, says girls make the best swimmers.

frost tonight—

How will your car start tomorrow?

Don't blame your motor when you cannot get it started on a cold and frosty morning. Don't wear out the battery first, and then yourself, cranking a balky engine.

What you need is a volatile, easy-starting gasoline—a gasoline which vaporizes readily at low temperatures.

Such a motor fuel is Lubrite Gasoline.

Lubrite is the high-test, straight-run gasoline which is certain to give you easier, quicker starting. Because it is refined in such a way that enough of it vaporizes at low temperatures, it fires readily any time and in any weather.

The difference in quality between Lubrite and ordinary gasoline is so marked this time of the year that we well might say it takes winter for Lubrite to be properly appreciated.

Will you try a filling today, and start tomorrow right with Lubrite? There's a station near your home.

Lubrite Motor Oil

—an oil with a below-zero cold test which insures proper lubrication of your motor at all times. Wise motorists use it to get added years of service from their cars.

The secret of keeping young is to keep young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—double-lidded eyes in your face—Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by tuning up the liver and bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color, 15c and 50c.

SAWS WAY OUT OF JAIL WITH BLADE SHE HID IN CORSET
"Laugh That Off," Alleged Forger Says in Note Left for Detective —Girl Accompanied Her.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Miss Marlon Brazier, 27 years old, sawed the bars of her cell in the Bergen County Jail at Hackensack, N. J., Tuesday night and escaped. With her went Alice Cedarlund, 16 of Ridgefield Park, N. J., who was awaiting arraignment on a charge of incorrigibility.

Miss Brazier was held on charges made as the result of passing a number of small checks.

When County Detective Allyn went to the jail, he found a note left by Miss Brazier in which she said she had secreted a saw blade in her corset and had used it to cut the one steel bar of her cell window.

"Laugh that off," the note concluded.

The body was taken to the Parker Memorial Chapel and there were several truck loads of floral offerings from many parts of the country. At 11 o'clock, under escort of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, the cortege proceeded to the auditorium of the university, in Jesse Hall, where funeral services were held.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 29.—Samuel M. Ralston, late senator from Indiana, left an estate of $90,000. His will, filed yesterday listed real estate at $75,000 and personal property worth $15,000. Emmett G. Ralston, son, was named executor and Julian C. another son, was named attorney for the estate. "Hoosier Home," suburban residence of the Senator, an 180-acre farm in Decatur County and his stock in the First National Bank of Lebanon were willed to his widow. The three children received the remainder of Senator Ralston's property.

TAFT URGES HIGHER STANDARD OF EDUCATION FOR THE BAR
Says Justice Cannot Be Done to Clients or Society When Lawyers Are Ignorant.

By the Associated Press.
CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 29.—Adequate preparation for the law was urged by Chief Justice Taft in a dedicatory address here at the Alphonse Taft Law School building of the University of Cincinnati yesterday.

A thorough general education is needed, he said, to prepare a lawyer to take up anything that may be the subject matter of negotiations by his clients or involved in their litigation.

"No one can sit in a court of justice," he continued, "and not realize how men suffer, how injustice is done that cannot be remedied through the ignorance and blundering of men who have acquired the right to practice law. The interests of society demand that legislation and those charged with legal education shall put up the bars against accepting candidates inadequately prepared."

The Chief Justice approved the system of modern law schools in requiring higher entrance requirements, declaring he hoped that no university law school would admit an applicant who had not a bachelor's degree in a collegiate institution.

Former Actress Denied Big Estate.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Ena Welch, former actress, lost a three-year fight in the courts for the $400,000 estate of Charles F. Swigart, former Alderman, yesterday. The Appellate Court reversed the decision of the Circuit Court and gave the property to Swigart's sister, Emma, 70 years old. Mrs. Welch, wardrobe matriarch for a theatrical company, brought action after Swigart died intestate in 1917, on the ground she was his daughter, born of a common law union.

Farmers to Hear and See Coolidge.

At this luncheon plans are to seat 3000 members.

$10,000 Damage Caused by Strikers.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Six armed men overpowered the driver of an automobile truck loaded with parcel post packages of the International Tailoring Co., being taken to the postoffice last night, and set the bags afire after pouring gasoline on them. Damage to the merchandise, mostly clothing, was estimated at $10,000. The police attributed the act to sympathizers of striking garment workers.

Flowers in Small Parks Opposed.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The floral plots which for years have decorated Washington's small circular parks at avenue intersections have come under the disapproval of the Fine Arts Commission. The commission has suggested to park engineers that well-kept grass and evergreens are more effective than flowers on small squares. Only where they can be grown over larger areas, it believes, are flowers a suitable decoration.

STANDING BODY ON DELINQUENCY OF YOUTH NAMED

One Representative From Each of 97 Organizations Participating in Conference to Be Appointed.

COMMUNITY COUNCIL
ALSO TO TAKE PART

Will Distribute Information to Prevent Duplication of Effort — Recommendations Are Made.

The Standing Committee on Our Community and Its Youth, comprising one representative from each of 97 organizations, is the outgrowth of the Conference on Our Community and Its Youth, which ended yesterday, having met at the City Club for three days.

The conference was called to consider the problems of juvenile delinquency here, and the delegates from the 97 participating organizations concluded that the best way to co-operate for the welfare of the city's youth is through the standing committee, but with the task of obtaining and distributing information placed in the hands of the Community Council, to avoid duplication of effort.

Participating are social service, civic and commercial groups of greatly varying nature. The conference brought out the existence of numerous weak spots in the city's defense against delinquency. Detailed recommendations for their eradication were adopted.

More Playground Facilities.
Under the head of education the recommendations call for greater dissemination of social hygiene information and for thorough vocational guidance for children and youth. Further study of undesirable motion pictures and stage performances is recommended under the head of recreation; doubling of public recreational and playground facilities is called for; continuous supervision of dance halls is suggested and continued use of the campaign against undesirable literature is approved.

Elimination of houses of prostitution is urged in the legal measure section, as are an adequate law representative of vice, abandonment of the practice of holding unconvicted women of the streets for medical inspection, strengthening of the illegitimacy law, provision for the commitment of prostitutes, social investigation of all marriages of minors, including proof of age and residence, and prohibition of the marriage of girls under 15 and boys under 16.

Strengthening of the Policewomen's Bureau is called for, with the appointment of women as commissioned officers. Appointment of a permanent Juvenile Court Judge is urged "greatly to enhance the continuity and value of the work for juvenile delinquents." A better law penalizing those who contribute to delinquency is suggested.

Under medical measures, the committee desires social follow-up work by the Municipal Venereal Disease Clinic. Special consideration for children too young to attend school and of "problem children" in school is put forth as an important desire, coupled with the introduction of visiting teachers to help adjust problems of the latter group. Better housing facilities are urged. Improvement of detention facilities is suggested, in detail.

A dinner of the conference last night was addressed by Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor; Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, director of the Washington (D. C.) policewomen; Dr. Valeria H. Parker, director of protective measures of American Social Hygiene Association; and Dr. Smiley Stanton, director of the Minneapolis Child Guidance Clinic.

Relationship of Parents.
Miss Abbott, in a conference luncheon address, declared that parents' relationship to their children nowadays is one of obligation and opportunity and not of right. "As a result," she said, "the State has taken up entirely new responsibilities in reinforcement of the parents' desires. It has been somewhat a fad to talk about the state in its relationship to the home and say it is interfering with the activities of the home. However, these are only functions done in a co-operative way because we know they cannot be done individually in a community. It is an age of co-operation as far as the child is concerned."

In reply to a question as to whether the workings of the Sheppard-Towner maternity act were not refuting arguments of the critics of Federal aid, Miss Abbott said: "Some of the talk when the bill was pending was that it would create an army of Federal employees, putting one in every home. The 'army' consists of nine executives added to the Children's Bureau staff. The fears of many people who didn't know what was coming have been allayed."

White Rose Gasoline

Sells for 3c More a Gallon—and is worth it

The Same High Quality Winter and Summer

COOL weather brings thousands of motorists to En-ar-co service stations for White Rose Gasoline. Still colder weather brings additional thousands—Why?

White Rose Gasoline starts easier—because it is distilled and re-distilled to insure elimination of every impurity. It is pure, unadulterated, with every desired quality "bred" into it at the refinery and not "injected" into it at the service station. It needs no "dope".

White Rose Gasoline will run your car more quietly and smoothly, with a turbine-like flow of power—never jerky, sputtery or "bomb-like", because it "pushes" instead of "blasts" its way through to the exhaust.

Sure, you can run your car on cheaper gasoline. You pay for it in cleaning-out carbon oftener and in repair bills due to carbon which causes friction and wear on valves and cylinders.

Better pay 3c a gallon more for White Rose Gasoline than dollars at the repair shop. "White Rose" is pure honest-to-goodness gasoline, made by an honest-to-goodness company. Try White Rose Gasoline—there is no substitute for experience.

White Rose Gasoline has "price imitators" but not one "quality imitator". For nearly half a century White Rose Gasoline has sold for 3c a gallon more than ordinary gasoline. The National Refining Company has never made or sold but one grade of gasoline—White Rose—the best.

Man, 80, Kills Black Bear, Moose and Two Deer; Son, 50, Also Has a True Aim

Cyrus Thompson, of Belleville, Returns From Eleventh Big Game Hunt, After 27 Days in Canadian Woods.

Two fine moose heads—the legal limit—were added to the collection of Cyrus Thompson, 80 years old, and William Thompson, 50, president and vice president, respectively, of the Harrison Machine Works of Belleville, upon their return last week from their eleventh big game hunt in the New Brunswick forests since 1903.

The white-bearded elder Thompson has been hunting big game for nearly half a century, and his son began almost in boyhood. At first glance it would seem that the hunting fever runs in the family. But wait.

Besides his one moose, Cyrus Thompson, who contributes to "Outdoor Life," bagged a black bear and two deer, the legal limit. William Thompson also got his two deer. His father doesn't think so much of them. But he is proud of that bear.

"We found him on Oct. 6," he related, "on the way through the woods to get the antlers of the moose my son had killed the day before. I had got my moose Oct. 3.

First Wild Bear He Ever Saw.

The bear, small but beautifully furred, was near the carcass of a slain deer and not 50 yards from us—an easy shot. I've been hunting

YOUTH SOUGHT IN ROBBERY CASE HELD IN CHICAGO

Photograph of Christ Herdibu, Paroled From Boonville, Has Been Identified, Police Say.

St. Louis police were notified today of the arrest in Chicago of Christ Herdibu, 18 years old, whose photograph has been identified as that of the lone highwayman who kidnaped an automobile driver, stole another machine and then robbed a delivery truck driver and another motorist on Oct. 17 of 1922.

Herdibu was arrested here last

December and admitted being leader of the "Illinois avenue gang," which confessed to 21 highway robberies in one month. He later pleaded guilty of robbery and was sentenced to five years in the Boonville reformatory. He had served but a few months of his sentence when he was paroled to a resident of Waterloo, Ill., on the promise that he would remain away from St. Louis.

A few days before the robberies of Oct. 17 Detective Sergeant Rice saw Herdibu in St. Louis and when descriptions of the robber were broadcast he was convinced the robberies were the work of the youth. Oliver Reinhardt of 2018A

Cherokee street; John Wand of 3523 Wyoming street and John B. Sherer of 4563 Lucky street subsequently identified Herdibu's photograph as that of the robber.

Police requested the Waterloo Chief of Police to arrest Herdibu and were informed by him that the boy was in Chicago.

SISTER OF JAIL PRISONER HELD IN DRUG INQUIRY

Chicago Woman Denies Sending Morphine to Finger Stalls and Pork Chops.

Miss Margaret Wilson, 25 years old, who says she operates a millinery and interior decorating establishment in Chicago, is held at Central District today pending an investigation of attempted smuggling of morphine to her brother, James W. Wilson, a prisoner at City Jail.

Wilson, who describes himself as an accountant of 5700 Etzel avenue, was sentenced to three years in Leavenworth penitentiary today by Judge Farris when he admitted forging and passing a Veteran's Bureau compensation check for $20 in January 1924.

Miss Wilson was arrested yesterday afternoon after a visit to her brother. She denied knowing anything of the attempt to get morphine to him.

The morphine—30 grains of it—was found Saturday afternoon by jail guards. It had been placed in three rubber finger stalls and cooked into the batter of bread porkchops. The package bore the return address, 534 East Thirty-fourth street, Chicago, a fictitious location.

Miss Wilson says she lives with her mother at 932 East Forty-fourth street. She says that her brother does not use morphine so far as she knows.

MAN MISSING SINCE SATURDAY BELIEVED TO BE ILL OR LOST

B. Atterberg, Native of Sweden and Speaking Little English, Had Been in City Only Few Days.

Police and private detectives have been called in to investigate the disappearance here of B. Atterberg, a brother of F. Atterberg, head of the Vulcan Match Co. of New York.

The brothers came to St. Louis eight days ago, and arrangements were made for B. Atterberg to enter the employ of the Crunden-Martin Manufacturing Co. last Monday. He failed to appear that day, and the company notified F. Atterberg, who had returned to New York Friday.

Investigation disclosed that B. Atterberg checked out of Hotel Jefferson Saturday night, and that he had been seeking a room in the West End. He had a sum of money, the exact amount being unknown. It is believed he may be ill or lost. He is a native of Sweden and speaks broken English.

The following description was obtained: 23 to 26 years old, 125 pounds, 5 feet 8 or 9 inches, thin face, prominent forehead, dark brown hair, blue eyes, and wearing, presumably, a blue serge suit, dark overcoat and dark fedora. Persons with information of his whereabouts are asked to communicate with Walter Crunden of the Crunden-Martin company, or telephone Mhu-1486.

WEST END BUSINESS MEN FOR EXPEDITING BOND PROJECTS

Association Requests Aldermen to Pass Ordinance Supplying Necessary Legal Force.

Directors of the West End Business Men's Association, meeting at the Melbourne Hotel last night, adopted a resolution requesting the Board of Aldermen to pass the ordinance for extending the condemnation section of the City Law Department, to expedite work of bond issue projects requiring condemnation.

The resolution also requested city officials to exert every possible effort to complete all bond issue projects as soon as possible.

The meeting was addressed by Thomas L. Cannon, an attorney who is a leader of the St. Louis County Annexation League, on the league's desires for a full merger of the city and county as one city. Cannon told of various advantages that would accrue to the present county, then.

INJURIES BY TWO AUTOS FATAL TO UNIDENTIFIED NEGRO

Man Was Struck by One Car, Then Run Over by Another on Oct. 21.

An unidentified negro died at City Hospital Oct. 22 at 4:45 p. m. yesterday of skull fracture and other injuries suffered when struck by two automobiles as he was crossing Washington boulevard at Leffingwell avenue Oct. 21. In a moment of consciousness he was understood to say "Steve Ward, 2326 Lucas avenue," but no one at that address or in the vicinity knew of him. The body is at the morgue.

Police reported the negro was struck by the sedan of Herman Schuchart, 36, of 755 Syracuse avenue, and then run over by the car of Atwood Tinker, 32, of Overland, St. Louis County. Both drivers furnished bond.

The total of automobile fatalities this year is 150 as against 147 for a similar period last year.

COUNTY ROAD OIL CONTRACT MAY BE LAID BEFORE JURY

Prosecuting Attorney Mueller Going Over Depositions Made in Injunction Suit.

An investigation of the award of a $53,800 road oil contract to the Cabell Petroleum Co. by the County Court may be made by the St. Louis County grand jury, it was learned today.

Prosecuting Attorney Mueller is going over depositions taken in a suit to enjoin the award and will probably make a decision on the inquiry today.

As will be recalled, Presiding

Judge Smiley, minority member of the County Court, has charged that the award was dictated by Albert Auerbach, chairman of the County Republican Committee, and has declared Fred Esen, the Republican boss, and former County Clerk Seibel were interested in seeing that the Cabell company got the contract.

High Blood Pressure
Often Due to Gas

High blood pressure, so often the forerunner of a general breakdown in health, is always the direct result of a too rapid heart action. This condition is frequently caused by excessive gas in the stomach, which through expansion disturbs the heart and sets it to pulsating at an abnormal rate.

It is a simple matter to reduce blood pressure to normal in cases where digestive weakness is the source of the trouble. Get a package of Basalman's Gas Tablets from your druggist and take a couple before and after each meal. See how quickly they will calm your nervous, restless stomach and bring relief from all disagreeable symptoms of gas. You will sleep better and feel better. Basalman's Gas Tablets are pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. You can buy them at any good drug store including Judge & Dolph, Drug Stores and Wolf-Wilson. Price $1 everywhere. ALABAMA POWER CO. READY TO SUBMIT BID ON SHOALS

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The Alabama Power Co. has informed the Muscle Shoals commission that it is prepared to submit a proposal to operate Muscle Shoals for the production of fertilizer in time of peace, and ammunition in time of war and to supply the adjacent region with power needed with the expansion of industry.

The company told the commission it had withheld a definite bid pending stipulation by Congress of the terms of the lease which it thought should authorize contracts
for the operations of Muscle Shoals
for a period not exceeding 50 years, either as a whole or in separate parts, with requirements from the maintenance of nitrate plant No. 2
for purposes of national defense
and the operation of both plants
No. 1 and No. 2 at nominal rental for the production of fertilizer and other useful materials.

The company further suggested that the power plants should be leased, subject to power reserved
for operation of the nitrate plants, on a basis of not less than 4 per cent per annum on the cost of dam No. 3 and its power generating facilities, the lease to be open to revocation at any time, under the terms of the Federal water-power act.

Construction of dam No. 3 was held by the company to be an important part of the Muscle Shoals problem, and its idea was that if the dam for navigation should justify expedition of the work by the Government, the market demand
for power in the adjacent region would insure a fair return for the cost.

NEW FIELD HOUSE SOLVES FETE PROBLEMS, GANZ SAYS

After watching construction work yesterday on the new Washington University Field House, Rudolph Ganz, director of the Symphony Orchestra, declared the structure, which has a seating capacity of 4,000, solves the problem of housing spring musical festivals in St. Louis, such as are held in Cincinnati, Worcester, Ann Arbor and Evanston. The building is for the accommodation of indoor athletic exhibitions.

Ganz has often urged that St. Louis should organize its own annual musical fete, and points out that no city south or west of here now operates such festivals. He said he hoped the university and the Symphony Orchestra might cooperate in bringing a series of the kind into being.

LOCARNO MEANS REAL PEACE, HOUGHTON SAYS

American Ambassador, at London Dinner, Pays Tribute to Chamberlain's Efforts.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 29.—(Associated Press.)—Alanson B. Houghton, the American Ambassador, who rarely has broken his diplomatic silence in public, yielded last night to the temptation before the Knights of Round Table, a club composed of distinguished British statesmen, officials and figures in public life, to whom he fully demonstrated his ability to carry on the long tradition of American envoys to the Court of St. James as after-dinner speaker.

Declaring that Anglo-American relations were so good that they offered no more field for discussion than the relations of Surrey and Sussex Ambassadors Houghton passed to the European situation. He paid tribute to the statesmen who made the Locarno treaty for having brought about real peace nearly seven years after the war had ended, and for having "made the world a sweeter and kinder place in which to live."

Comments Chamberlain, particularly pleased the modern followers of King Arthur by saying that Austin Chamberlain's ability was largely responsible for the Locarno success.

After accepting honorary membership in the ancient club, which was founded in 1720, and raising a huge loving cup, such as graced King Arthur's board, to his lips as a symbol, the Ambassador expressed regret that one of the purposes of the organization, that of promoting international understanding, had not been wholly successful during the last two centuries, mainly because nations relied upon force, rather than good will.

"We cannot grow peace out of force," he said. "We have tried the experiment for centuries and the results have always been failure. Out of force nothing comes in the end but force, while Locarno is a striking example of the truth that peace comes from good will."

Scaplane Race Mentioned.
From the seat of King Arthur, Sir Trevor Dawson, Knight President, and another speaker, Major-General Sir Charles Dawson, in charge of British civil aviation, took occasion to extend congratulations to America for her victory in the Schneider Cup race at Baltimore. Lieut. Doolittle's daring and American aviation, combined with efficiency," were especially praised.

"We have plenty of sportsmanship, but are poor at efficiency," said Sir Sefton.

Another Chicago artist and instructor, Leopold Seiffert, won the Logan medal and $1000 for a self-portrait, "Myself."

The Potter Palmer gold medal and $1000 went to "Sea Horse," a sculpture by Chester Beach, Estelle R. Kahn's sculpture, "Maturity," merited the Mrs. Keith Spaulding prize of $1000, "Caden Sore Torso" by Emil Zettler, won the W. M. R. French memorial medal.

V. Kohnstamm prize of $500 to "Elisabeth," a portrait of "White girl" by Mary R. Clay; Peabody $500 award for "The Little Dancer" by Wilbur G. Adam; Cahn $100 prize for "Self Portrait," by Paul Preblich.

LIQUOR RAIDS AT MASCOUTAH

Prohibition Agents Seize 300 Gallons of Beer and Whisky.

East St. Louis prohibition agents under Deputy Administrator Barker yesterday raided two saloons at Mascoutah, Ill., and confiscated 300 gallons of beer and whisky. The places were said by the agents to be operated by J. A. Muehl and James Frederick, of whom warrants were ordered to appear before United States Commissioner Herman Friswell today.

Get Trapped in Illinois Stream.
A 12 Scholastic, a farmer living five miles north of Edwardsville, brought to that place yesterday for a bath in the Mississippi River. The farmer was about eight miles from the Quinceville place, where surface oil has been found and where drilling operations are under way, sponsored by an Edwardsville company.

SAYS STATE CHECKS UTILITIES TWO WAYS

Union Electric Head Suggests Merger of Tax and Service Board Supervision.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 29.—(Associated Press.)—The State Tax Commission, the State Public Service Commission, insofar as they relate to public utilities, is suggested by Louis H. Egan, president of the Union Electric Light & Power Co., to permit the most efficient utility development in Missouri.

The State Board of Equalization recently set $17,451,000 as the valuation of the company for taxation purposes, a figure $5,000,000 higher than the return it made. Commenting upon the $225,000 addition to the tax on the company this year, over last year, Egan said that a middle ground should be reached between the Tax Commission, exacting large revenues on the one hand, and the Public Service Commission, limiting utility income on the other.

Egan regards the assessment as too high, but will not contest it in the courts. "I believe the State makes a mistake in maintaining these two commissions insofar as they relate to utilities," he said. "One endeavor to gauge all the cash it can from the company and the other constantly keeps holding its income down. It prevents development."

"Tax Can Offset Advantages."
There should be a clear distinction in the public mind between valuation of utilities for rate-making purposes and for taxation purposes. Utility value should be original cost and present reproduction cost, with some modifications, are factors in arriving at the valuation upon which rates are based and the Supreme Court of the United States has so held. A percentage of physical value only is the basis for taxation assessments. Other utilities have submitted to a high assessment, making our light useless.

"St. Louis, with extensive water power and cheap coal available, has an economic advantage that its location gives it. But if heavy taxes are to be harnessed on industries it will destroy that natural advantage and discourage development."

Will Submit to Increase.
"Our taxes next year will be about $1,800,000. Consumers of electricity will be forced to pay it and it will be passed on to them. We can reduce rates. Those who pay a $2 electric bill will give 25 cents of it for taxation purposes. This large industrial users of electricity will be taxed not on their properties but upon the electrical current they use. We are one of the largest taxpayers in the State now and we will go on paying $500,000 more next year."

For the State and Government.
"We should to have the $225,000 increased tax levied over a period of years so the advance would be gradual, but it is an advance. It is a Missouri corporation and we will do what the State demands without further appeal."

Egan's attention was called to the fact that the Union Electric's $12,000,000 in common stock has been paying 12 per cent to the North American Co. by which it is owned. He said that was only fair in view of the value of the property and the credit standing and stability of the company.

NEW YORK CENTRAL TRAIN CONTROL DEAL UNDER INQUIRY

Complaint Charges Supplies Were Bought From Corporation Having Same Officials as Road.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(Associated Press.)—An investigation has been ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission into the transaction by which the New York Central Railroad has installed an automatic train control device on its line which was supplied by the General Railway Signal Co., and a hearing was set for Dec. 1 in Washington.

The commission acted on a complaint by the Sprague Safety Control and Signal Corporation, a competitor of the General Railway Signal Co., that the New York Central was "inherently unsafe under the operating conditions obtaining on the said railway."

The New York Central has train control devices installed on its process of installation on two complete divisions of its line, acting like all the other large railroads doing this work, under the commission's order to try out the instrument. The train control mechanisms are designed to prevent collisions by stopping a train whenever it proceeds past a block signal or enters a danger zone.

300-GALLON STILL AND 85 GALLONS OF ALCOHOL SEIZED

Joe and John Gasoline of Centerville Station, Ill., Ordered to Appear Before U. S. Commissioner.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 29.—(Associated Press.)—Prohibition agents of East St. Louis yesterday raided a 300-gallon still which was confiscated and sent to the Centerville Station, Ill. The still was found in a small frame house in the rear of an alcohol plant and is said by agents to be the largest still found by them in that vicinity.

Eighty-five gallons of alcohol and a 200-gallon container also were found. The brothers were ordered to appear before United States Commissioner Friswell today.

The Divine Lady

"The Divine Lady" is the story, partly fiction but largely based on fact, of Lady Emma Hamilton, the Englishwoman of lovely birth who became one of the best known and most talked about women in all Europe.

CHAPTER FIFTY-FIVE

THEY embarked at Hamburg in a storm which might have pre-figured much if they had taken it as an omen. Sir William, terribly shaken and suffering, could only groan aloud that he wished they had never left Naples. This cursed war and its consequences were ruining him in purse and health alike. Emma left his groanings to seek shelter by Nelson, for it seemed at one time as if all her doubts and fears might be settled in a way that would make no appeal to human judgment needful. She found him pale and serious in the little cabin, a letter in his hand, his mind evidently abstracted from the yelling wind and rolling waves. She came and caught his arm for safety, flung against him by the rolling of the ship, and he drew her down beside him.

"It reminds me of the Vanguard and the voyage to Palermo!" he said. "But what does that matter? Storms blow themselves out but there are things!"

He stopped, and put the letter in her hand. She knew the writing—Fanny's. She read it eagerly: "I have this instant received a note from Admiral Young, who tells me if I can send him a letter for you in an hour he will send it, therefore I have only time to say I have had the pleasure of receiving two letters from you. I can with safety put my hand on my heart and say it has been my study to please and make you happy, and I still flatter myself we shall meet before very long. I feel most sensibly all your kindnesses to my dear son, and I hope he will add much to our comfort. Our good father has been in good spirits ever since we heard from you; indeed, my spirits were quite worn out the time had been so long. I thank God for the preservation of my dear husband, and your recent success at Malta. The taking of the Genexux seems to give great spirits to all. God bless you, my dear husband, and grant us a happy meeting." Our good father, affectionate prefix and ending, the letter stood.

"It is the answer to mine forbidding her to join me in Palermo," he said, and there was something in his voice that shot a pang of dread to her heart. That quiet reference to his capturing the French ship—what man of sense could compare it with her own violent outpouring of delight at his successes, she thought. And yet—there was a calm tone of settled, steadfast affection, of wisely ownership, of the family ties—"our good father"—that wounded Emma at every syllable and woke the worst in her. It seemed to rise superior above all she could say or do; the wife, the happy wife who had no secrets, whose position all must do reverence to, while she—she was nothing but a hindrance, a hidden shame, the blot on an honor that nothing else could have spotted. It seemed to set Lady Nelson apart and beyond her. She handed it coldly back.

"A wife who can take your glories so coldly is what I can't understand. I should have thought—but no matter! If it moves you—if you think she is worthy of your greatness!"

He understood the note of pain in her voice, and clasped her hand in his. She could feel his feverish heart; the nervous thrill in it.

"She is my wife no longer. It is you—my own Emma, the mother of my child. But you have a generous soul, you must know from that letter she has heard the base stories that were scattered from Palermo, and she wants to assure me that neither those nor my refusing to let her come out have made any difference. She is a woman I must respect to my last day, for I have never known a spot in her—no, not one. If I could keep her as a friend, I would, but the world is so impossible—impossible to what it can't understand or value. Still, would my Emma value her Nelson, if he could cast such a woman off without a pang? God knows I dread that meeting in London, and to wound her tender heart."

"Tender!" she cried. "I should have said not tender—hard. See that cold, cold letter, and you coming home with such honors as was never seen in the world. No—don't mistake her. She will value the world's good opinion. She won't throw away all for you, as I've done with all the dangers and ruin likely before me. The one is love; the other—I don't know what to call it."

"Do you think I don't know that?" he said, his nervous face gulvering and lips twitching. "If you asked me, I would never see her again. I am all yours—body and soul until death do us part. But—she is a good woman."

"And I am not good? Oh, Nelson, is this the reward of such love as was never known?"

"You are my saint, my guardian angel. There is not a thought of my heart inconstant to you. She is nothing—not a shadow!"

He tore the letter into tiny fragments, and as the wind screamed in at the open door, he flung them out to sea.

ments, unfolded the porthole by an inch, and as the wind screamed in at it, he pushed his fingers through and sent the fragments flying on the gale. He closed it again and returned to his seat by Emma.

"That for her!" he said. Even to Emma in her triumph there was something shocking in the incident. Love! To what could it drive a man? Yet she was glad at heart.

They landed in a storm so terrible that only Nelson's advice and entreaties compelled the pilot to bow to his better judgment, and surely the sight of the English welcome was reassuring, for all Yarmouth had turned out to meet the returning hero. Emma, too, was not forgotten. Amid the music and rejoicings a ring of fine topaz set in brilliants was bestowed upon her by the enthusiastic welcomers. William was quietly in the background, used indeed by this time to that effacement. Speeches, sentiments, bows, exuberance, fanned the popular welcome into roaring flame. Never was such a scene.

"And London will beat it!" she said, triumphant, as they entered the coach for the journey. "We are safe, safe in England. It will be Naples, Palermo, only more, because it's our own dear country!"

But Nelson was silent. His fears were greater than his hopes. Yet Emma was always right and surely her charms would conquer England as they had done Italy. On her he relied. But that welcome was unfortunate for it made her more self-confident, less inclined to be conciliatory than ever before. She was certain they could have it all their own way.

It was a still Sunday afternoon with a November mist clinging like a cold breath to London, daylight still but the light showing little starry points in the streets below when Fanny and her old father waited for Nelson at Nerot's Hotel in St. James's.

She was a young woman of 36, "not beautiful but eminently pleasing," as a friend described her, with clear hazel eyes matching abundant hair arranged low over her forehead, almost hiding the brown, finely-marked eyebrows. The charm of her face was the mouth, set in a plain dress of brown satin, a little staid in its design for her years, especially with the broad falling collar of Maltese lace and sleeves to match, which Nelson had sent her from the Mediterranean, and which certainly would be more suitable 10 years hence. The sleeves half hid really beautiful little hands with a quick nervous gesture about them when she was eager, which the Nelson daughters considered foreign and affected.

But Frances Nelson cared very little about things of that order. She had never gone much into society, was rather alarmed than otherwise by the daring, low-bosomed fashions of the day, imported from the license of France, and was better pleased to escape notice than to attract it. Besides, except for Nelson's visit to England, her life had been mostly passed in the village of Burnham Thorpe, as the companion of Nelson's old father, a dull life for a young woman, and one which his daughters, Mrs. Matcham and Mrs. Bolton, were very well pleased to commit to the daughter-in-law.

She really had very little in common with the Nelsons. She had been married extremely young to her first husband, Dr. Nisbet, and was left a widow next year with a child—Josiah. But her life in the Leeward Islands and her few travels with Nelson had given her at least a glimpse of the world outside England, and she was apt to think the family narrow and ignorant. She thought them also excitable and exaggerated in their emotions, which was true enough in its way, and they returned the compliment by styling her cold, reserved, uninteresting. They could not imagine what Horatio had seen in a widow, who had only £4000 "to her fortune" when all was said and done.

Still, it was owned that Fanny was sensible and useful. She had not the sensibility that could admire, was not liable like them to interesting heart spasms on the slightest excitement, took things quietly and composedly, and might even be suspected of airs of superiority to those who had sensitive feelings and displayed them. Yet their father would have been a problem without her and certainly none of the sons or their wives coveted his company. Perhaps it was on the whole the better she was so staid and quiet. A livelier young woman might have been urged for more amusement, and old Mr. Nelson was attached to her.

She was certainly reserved. It was extraordinarily difficult for her to express what she felt, and in that respect she was a contrast, indeed, to her husband, whose emotions, like his family's, were always more or less in the extreme. For the rest, she seemed to have little initiative, agreed with his opinions gently, and was compliant almost to a fault. His father was exceedingly fond of her and thought her the ideal wife for Horatio, who had agreed in that opinion formerly in short, a woman for whom it would be difficult to predict her action in really disturbing circumstances.

It was characteristic of her reserve that while all the family were whispering together and clustered about the door, which had come in from Naples and Palermo she never uttered a word on the subject. Mrs. Bolton, Mrs. Matcham, both sailed as near the wind as they dared when they visited their father, but Fanny was silent. Not meaningly and bodingly silent, but calmly. It was as if she had heard nothing. For the life of them the two bustling women could not make her, out, and wait away discussing the "hussy" at Naples, and lamenting Fanny's stupidity, who, if she had written "strongly" to Horatio would only have been doing her duty as a wife and might have made some impression. In reality, the quiet woman whose hazel eyes were so reticent had heard more than any of them, and lived in an agony of fear and jealous pain. A Nelson would have stormed about the room, stormed in speech and on paper and decreed the pressure somehow by this kind of exhalation. She could not. She endured. She made little tentatives, small hints, in her letters to him which she prayed he might take advantage of for explanation and, when he never did, was helpless and could say no more. She cringed even when alone at the mere thought of upbraiding her husband with any liking for another woman.

But she watched his letters, line-eyed, for any signs of change, and found plenty. "My dearest Fanny," "My beloved wife," became "My dear Fanny," and her "most loving and affectionate husband" became "affectionate, and from that zero, as it seemed to her, the thermometer never rose again.

And now at last, after long years, they were to meet, and in spite of her calm exterior she was trembling in every limb as if with ague, and could hardly answer the old man's restless questions for the dryness in her throat.

"I wonder what he'll look like, Fanny. I wonder if there will be much change in him."

"Much change, I should think, sir. Time does not stand still."

"But his true heart can never change. He was always the best of sons."

"The very best, father. You could not have desired a better."

"No, and that's the index of a man's character. If that's right, all the rest follows. Ah, you're a fortunate woman, Fanny. He has given you a great position. What did I hear a coach down below?"

"No, father, don't move. I will warn you in time. Stay, let me arrange your hair. I want him to see you at your best."

She produced a little pocket comb and put back the long white locks on his forehead.

"How cold your hands are. Make up the fire. The room is cheerless compared to my study at home," he said, shivering.

It was cheerless and full of fog. The heavy red damask curtains were looped up in formal folds, the chairs set in line against the flock-carpeted walls, a stiff armchair on either side of the smoldering fire. The frost seemed to have entered into her soul. Her teeth were almost chattering with cold and fear.

"Hark! Far off a cheer! The cheering of a crowd—London shouting its welcome to an honored guest. She went quietly to the window and looked out on the waiting, silent crowds beneath.

"It might be—no, nothing yet. I'll watch."

She stood leaning there while the old man warmed his hands over the now flaming fire.

DO'S AND DON'TS FOR BUSINESS WOMEN

By NELLIE E. GARDNER

ARE you paying off a mortgage? Don't be too sure—perhaps you are not aware. There are mortgages on possessions besides houses and farms.

Some day, long ago, you may have mortgaged your time, your health, your happiness. And perhaps you have been paying off this mortgage ever since.

In personal affairs, as well as in finance, it is well to pay as we go.

It is never as hard to pay for what we buy on the day we acquire it, as it is after it has all been used up.

Perhaps your eyes are paying now for the sleep you lost six months ago. Maybe your nerves are just settling the bill for the late parties you enjoyed in college, or your first years in business. Perhaps your stability of character—or lack of it—is just giving reckoning for gradual, insidious inroads made upon your supply of moral fiber.

Bills have a tragic habit of coming due all at once. If you were unable to pay for anything you desired, whether a new gown or an hour's fun, or a friendship just a little outside the code of convention, at the time you made its choice are the chances any better for your discharge of the obligation today?

All kinds of mortgages some of us have placed on ourselves in our ignorance or thoughtlessness. There is education itself. Perhaps you were one of the many who would not go to school, or who would not apply yourself to study, while there. You are handicapped today, in your race with competitors, or compelled to spend valuable and painful hours learning facts and principles that should have been acquired in youth. You are simply paying off the mortgage on the time you stole from your books long ago.

Intellectual mortgages are not the only bills we must pay for work-time squandered or pleasure-time enjoyed in advance.

There are mortgages of the heart, as well. Not so simple to be discharged, these.

What about disrespect to your father or mother? What about refusal to help young brother or sister, in the critical, formative year? What about the greatest obligation of all—duty to one's own child?

You may dodge payment for years, but in the end all mortgages come due.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Home-Made.

A wooden chest that is thoroughly oiled with cedar oil once a year will serve as a cedar chest and will prove just as efficacious.

Off They Go!

Ammonia will remove ink stains from the fingers. It is well to know this now that school has started and we have many little stained fingers to combat.

In Place of String.

Narrow rubber bands are nice to hold the papers on the tops of jelly tumblers instead of string. They are much more easily adjusted, and when doubled, fit quite as tightly.

Lesson No. 1.

If you can teach the family to remove wet overcoats out on the porch and carry them into the house instead of wearing them, you have done a great deal towards keeping your living-room rug clean in these days of Dutch halls.

Removes Summer Cloudiness.

The cloudiness that appears on woodwork during the warm weather can be removed now by washing with a soft cloth and warm water, followed by a wet chamois wrung out of cold water. Then apply your usual furniture polish and rub until it shines.

Through the Hat.

Talking through one's hat presents no difficulties if the latest headgear for dining and dancing is worn. It is also easy to see through a hat, though large. It is transparent and so high as to be almost unnoticeable to the wearer. The hat is of horsehair and frequently is trimmed with metallic lace.

Stuffing Squash. Cut lengthways and peel two Italian squashes. Parboil until just tender, drain and scoop out the seeds. Make a savory stuffing of milk-soaked crumbs, seasoning, adding a grated onion, dot with butter and bake.

Keep the Hands Smooth

By LUCREZIA BORI

HANDS kept always soft and white and smooth are a great asset to beauty.

The woman who is fastidious about her personal appearance insists upon some treatment for her hands which keeps them in this condition, far rough, uneven skin is uncomfortable as well as unlovely to look upon.

Now the texture of skins vary, just as features vary. One person may have a skin generously supplied with oils which keep it smooth and unchapped, even in the coldest weather. Another person may have a dry skin which shows exposure to the elements on the slightest pretext.

If your skin is well supplied with oils you will find that it does not chap as readily in cold weather or in windy weather as the drier skin. Some women find that they can care for their hands with no difficulty in summer, but as soon as cold weather begins to come on their hands grow rough and red.

The best way to prevent this is to have a good hand lotion always ready. Apply it to your hands after you wash them and at any other time during the day that they seem to feel the need of it.

There are various hand lotions on the market. You may already have your favorite one among the well-known brands. If you have not, you will find the following lotion excellent to keep your hands soft and white and smooth.

You can have the formula mixed at any drug store:

Compound tincture of lavender 2 drachms
Chloric acid 10 grains
Alcohol 1 ounce
Water 1 ounce
Glycerin to make the entire lotion 4 ounces in weight.

Keep a bottle of this on hand. Use it generously, rubbing it well into your hands.

When you wash your hands, dry them thoroughly with a soft towel. Never go outdoors with your hands wet. When the colder weather begins and you wear gloves, you should always put your gloves on before you go out of doors. So many women wait until they have stepped outside to begin drawing on their gloves, and this short exposure to the colder outer air chaps them.

An old-fashioned cranberry steamed pudding is made by beating two eggs with ¼ teaspoon of salt and half a cup of sugar, then add a cup of milk, three tablespoons of melted butter, half a teaspoon of cinnamon, a quarter of a teaspoon of cloves and a dash of nutmeg; then stir in about three cups of ground whole wheat bread, or enough to make a drop batter. Steam an hour and serve with the following sauce: Mix one cup of cream and one-half cup of sugar with the beaten white of one egg; beat until light, add half a cup of cranberry jelly, cut jelly lightly through cream, leaving it in little lumps to give a pretty effect.

Candied Sweet Potatoes.
Medium-sized sweet potatoes, 4; melted butter, 1-3 cup; sugar, ¼ cup; salt, ¼ teaspoon; lemon juice, 1 tablespoon. Wash sweet potatoes and cook in boiling water for 20 minutes. Drain and peel. Cut in halves lengthwise and arrange in buttered baking dish. Sprinkle sugar over each half and pour over melted butter and lemon juice. Bake in slow oven for one hour. A dripping pan is convenient to use for candying the potatoes. Increase the heat for the last few minutes of cooking to color the syrup and potatoes.

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

Shutting Up House for the Winter

It sometimes seems as if one's eyes see less the more one really tries.

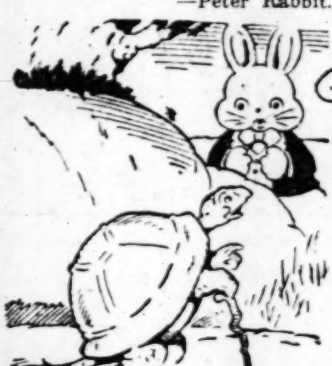

—Peter Rabbit.

PETER RABBIT continued his search for people who were preparing for winter, and the very day after his chat with little Mr. Garter Snake he discovered another old friend making ready for winter. It was over in the Green Forest not far from the edge at a place where the ground was quite soft. Peter was hopping along, lipperty-lipperty-lip, in a careless way. He was stopped by a hiss that made all his back hair stand on end. He jumped sideways before he saw who it was that had hissed. For a moment he was so provoked that he lost his temper. You know no one really enjoys being scared, and Peter was scared. That hiss had been so sharp and sudden, that although he knew all the members of the Snake family, unless perhaps little Mr. Garter Snake, had retired for the winter, his first thought was that only a Snake and a big one could have hissed like that. And when he saw who it was he was quite upset to think that he had shown himself afraid.

"What's the matter with you, Slowpoke?" he demanded. "Don't you know any better than to hiss at me like that?" "What's the matter with you, Slowpoke?" he demanded. "Don't you know any better than to hiss at me like that?" "What's the matter with you, Slowpoke?" he demanded. "Don't you know any better than to hiss at me like that?"

"Don't you know any better than to come hopping along without looking where you're going?" demanded Slowpoke the Box Turtle. "If I hadn't hissed you would have jumped right on me, and I don't know of any one who likes being jumped on. Certainly I don't. Mother Nature gave you a pair of eyes, so why don't you use them, Peter Rabbit?"

Slowpoke hissed this so sharply and angrily that Peter quite forgot his own anger in his surprise in seeing Slowpoke actually provoked. "Excuse me, Slowpoke," said he. "I didn't want to jump on you, any more than you wanted me to. 'If I scared you,

"What did I understand you to say?" he cried.

You scared me, so I guess we are square. You are the last person in the world I expected to see. How comes it that you have not retired for the winter? It seems to me that every one I meet these days is getting ready for winter. It's a relief to find some one who isn't."

"Who is it who isn't?" demanded Slowpoke. "Why, you aren't doing like that, are you?" demanded Peter. "I certainly am," declared Slowpoke. "I'm getting ready this very minute to close my house up for the winter."

Peter blinked several times. "What did I understand you to say?" he cried.

"I said that I'm getting ready to close my house up for the winter," replied Slowpoke. "That's what I'm over here for." Peter looked puzzled. He scratched a long ear with a long hindfoot and then he wobbled his nose in a puzzled way. "What do you mean by closing your house?" said he. Slowpoke said nothing. "His head disappeared. His legs disappeared. His tail disappeared. He had withdrawn them entirely inside his shell and then the halves of the lower shell closed tight, shutting him in entirely. There was nothing whatever to be seen of him except that shell. Peter waited. In a moment Slowpoke's head appeared. Then his legs and tail appeared. "That's what I mean," said he. "That's the way I shut my house up. It's very hard to carry your house with you wherever you go and to be able to close it whenever you feel like it."

"But," cried Peter, "I should think you would be afraid of freezing to death even if you do have the doors closed. Do you just close the doors whenever you happen to get ready, wherever you may happen to be?"

"Not exactly, Peter Rabbit, not exactly. I prepare for the winter just as any sensible person will. As I said before, that's what I'm here for," explained Slowpoke.

FAMOUS FORTUNES

By BARBARA BAYNE

Henry John Heinz, the "Pickle King"

ONE of the most conspicuous enterprises ever built up in America or any other land, and the largest of its kind, is the Henry J. Heinz condiment industry, famous the world over.

His father left Bavaria in 1840 and settled in Pittsburgh, where the future "pickle king" was born in 1854. Later he removed to Sharpsburg, where he followed brickmaking and contracting. Their home was a four-acre tract, where the lad loved to "watch things grow," as he said.

He was shrewd and thrifty, and before he was 17 he had sold over $2000 worth of "garden truck." But as he worked about the little truck farm there took shape in his mind the germ of an idea that later developed into a veritable gold mine. In reaching out for bigger things his first step was a course in a business college. Then, in one room, he started preparing one product—horseradish—which he peddled himself.

The four-acre vegetable garden expanded to cover 100,000 acres, where he grew the products preserved in the great plant. There are 25 finishing factories, in addition to the main plant and factories in England, Canada and Spain. The company owns and operates its own line of tank and refrigerator cars, also its own glass, tin and box factories. It employs about 6500 people. Scattered over America, Europe, Australia, Africa are about 400 salesmen.

The practical philanthropy of Henry J. Heinz was best demonstrated in his business. The plant contains a library, gymnasium, dance hall, picture gallery, hospital, swimming pool, free dental service and an auditorium, where frequently the employees are entertained.

He loved to "Watch Things Grow" As a special inducement to his "co-workers," as he preferred to call them, to remain and grow with the concern, every one has an understudy and is, in turn, understudying some one else. Thus, all are in line for promotion and high salaried positions. Also, when an employee has been with the company three years, he is given a life insurance policy, growing automatically from $200 to $1000.

In his later years Heinz traveled extensively and collected curios and works of art.

REMUS ADMITS HE SQUEALED ABOUT
LIQUOR DEAL HEREMillionaire Bootlegger Hints
He Was Given Dirty Deal
by Aids in Jack Daniel Case.SIX POLITICIANS
FACE INDICTMENTGrand Jury at Indianapolis
Is Expected to Return
Charges Against More Than 35 Defendants.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 20.—
George Remus has squealed.
Stung by the indignity of an unnamed "dirty deal" at the hands of associates in the Jack Daniel whisky conspiracy at St. Louis, the portuguese Cincinnati millionaire boot-legger and ex-convict has told the Government all he knows about the case.

He admitted that much this morning to the Post-Dispatch correspondent before he went before the Federal grand jury to complete his story of the liquor plot. As a result of the information he has given, the Post-Dispatch has learned a conspiracy indictment will be returned before Judge Balt-sell tomorrow, naming more than 35 defendants, including six prominent St. Louis politicians.

Two Guards Trail Him.
Sleek and self-possessed, Remus appeared in the Federal Building
today with two guards trailing him against possible attempts at assassination, and stopped for a moment to chat with the correspondent.
"Have you told the grand jury
all you know about this case?" the reporter asked. The former Cincinnati attorney scoffed.
"If you had been given the dirty deal that I got at St. Louis, what would you do?" Remus countered.
"With the outburst Remus became his old glib self, artfully evading a direct answer to questions. It was only when the reporter asked him what he had told the jury that he gave another answer serving to confirm the information that he had "squealed."
"I can't tell you what I have told the grand jury," he said. "I am under oath not to reveal what I have told. You see how the matter stands, don't you?"

Apparently Enraged.
The dapper ex-convict has been guarded closely since his first appearance here before the grand jury last Tuesday. One of his shadowers is his own follower, and the other is detailed by the Government.

Waking or sleeping the two men are always with him but these precautions have not served to make the rascally Remus uneasy.
During the afternoon he may be seen about the streets swinging his stick jauntily and in the evenings
he is to be found dining in public cafes to all appearance an unworried, prosperous, business man.

The testimony Remus has given may result in the conviction of more than a score of men, may send them to serve the penitentiary
terms that the law provides for conviction upon conspiracy. But bootlegging term in prison, while inconvenient is not dishonor, from Remus' viewpoint.

"Why should I be ashamed?" he asked the reporter. "All I have done is sell good whiskey. There is not great moral turpitude there and I do not feel dishonored."

"Milking" of Barrels.
Remus would not enlarge today
upon the "dirty deal" he had had in St. Louis but it undoubtedly was in connection with the disposal of the contents of 832 barrels of whisky "milked" from the Daniel warehouse at 2966 Duncan avenue, in August, 1933.

Besides the politicians implicated
in Remus' story, the 17 persons already indicted in St. Louis for conspiracy will be named in the new true bill. It is learned on good authority.

The grand jury also is expected to indict a former Deputy Comptroller and a broker of St. Louis anciently and ten residents of Cincinnati, including a banker there.

The Cincinnatians, according to report, were implicated in the operations of the "Death Valley"
distillery operations near their city.
It was in connection with the exposure of bootlegging operation
there that Remus was sentenced to two years in Atlanta, and ordered to pay a fine of $10,000. There some indication here re-what the operations of the "Death Valley"
project and the Jack Daniel establishment in St. Louis may be linked by the present investigation.

As has been told, it is before Judge Baltzell that the defendant will be tried. It is the plan of the Government to dismember the indictment in St. Louis and bring all alleged conspirators to trial here.
